Senate Irreconcilables in Last Stand

BALLOT NEAR ON ENTERING WORLD COURT

Foes Rally Around Moses Reservation to Prevent War to Enforce Findings

FINAL DEBATE STARTS

Many Distinguished Personalities and Society Leaders Occupy Seats in Gallery

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The Republican Democratic coalition finally crashed irreconcilable opposition to the world court in the senate today when it killed the Moses reservation, on which the anti-court group had centered its last hope.

The reservation, proposed by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, provided that judgments of the court "shall not be enforced by war under any name or in any form whatever." The vote was 22 to 69.

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—Irreconcilables staged their last stand on the world court in the senate today, rallying around the Moses reservation, which would prevent any judgments of the court from being "enforced by war under any name or in any form whatever."

Sensor Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, demanded adoption of the reservation to make the court a real instrument of peace to prevent war.

The reservation was assailed by Senator Lenroot, acting Republican floor leader, who warned that its adoption would prevent this country from entering the court.

Holds U. S. Ample Protected "If other nations entering this court wish to secure enforcement of judgments by force, it's none of our business," Lenroot said. "We are amply protected against our involvement by reservations already adopted."

"Adoption of this reservation would make this court a shield for wrongdoing instead of a court for right."

Sensor Underwood, Alabama, Democrat, said he regretted that even the five Swanson reservations were accepted. The issue is clear, he contended, that the United States should decide whether to enter an organization for peace or holdout for the old system of settling disputes by war.

"This would merely make it impossible for the nations of Europe to accept American entry into the court," he said.

The final debate upon the issue, which is recognized as the most important step taken by this country since the arms conference limitations, was enhanced by all the glories of a momentous event. Distinguished personalities of state and Washington society were present in the galleries and upon the floor.

30 BELIEVED DROWNED AS BOAT SINKS

Officers and Men of Atlantic Liners Undaunted By Failures at Rescue

SAVE 6 FROM VESSELS

Freighters Fall Prey to Storms and Attempts to Take Men Off Are Balked

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—The British freighter Laristan which the liner Bremen has been standing by in mid-Atlantic since early yesterday, is believed to have gone down with approximately 30 men aboard, according to a radiogram received this afternoon by the North German Lloyd line officer here from the master of the Bremen.

The message received from Captain Wurtts of the Bremen, who has been standing by for many hours in an effort to save the crew of the Laristan, was: "Saw Laristan last Tuesday, 6 p. m. Wednesday at 9 a. m., some wreckage was sighted floating on water and nothing more was found of Laristan. It is assumed the steamer sank." (Signed) "WURTTS."

This message was received shortly after 4 p. m. today.

(By United Press) NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Undaunted by previous failures, officers and crews of two trans-Atlantic liners resisted today in their efforts to rescue some 60 men from the disabled British freighters Laristan and Antinoe, which have fallen prey of Atlantic storms.

Already two lives have been given the work of mercy and six have been saved.

Today, Capt. George Fried, of the liner President Roosevelt, will make a new attempt to take aboard 30 men from the Antinoe, while the liner Bremen, which has reached the Laristan and saved six of its 30 men, will continue its efforts, the radio reported.

Delayed Liners Arrive In the meantime, liners continued to come into port here badly delayed and reporting the worst storms of recent months. The Lusitania and the Columbus are due today, and tomorrow the Aquitania and the France are expected. The Aquitania has been active in the rescue work for the Laristan, relaying messages from the Bremen and maintaining communication between ships and shore.

Rescue of six men from the Laristan was reported during the night, not long after the arrival of the Bremen alongside the disabled ship. The men were picked up from a lifeboat, but a rising wind prevented further rescues and the 24 remaining members of the crew spent most of the night clinging to the decks of their rolling, pitching ship.

Antinoe Still Afloat The Antinoe was reported at 6 a. m. today with bulkheads smashed, engines not working, all lights out and burning flares to keep the vessel afloat. The ship was standing by, informed that the ship still was afloat.

Already two major efforts to rescue the crew have failed. The first cost two lives when a lifeboat, manned by volunteers from the Roosevelt's crew, was smashed against the ship's side. The second failed when an empty lifeboat, which the Roosevelt attempted to float with the current to the Antinoe, was capsized.

False Teeth of Grant and Arthur Stolen

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Burglars who broke into the offices of Dr. H. A. Parr here stole not only gold and platinum from his work bench, but the false teeth of Gen. U. S. Grant, Mrs. Grant and President Chester A. Arthur. Parr had the plates, as he also had casts of the mouths of other persons of prominence years ago, as examples of the best dental work obtainable at the time.

ANDREWS WILL OUST 600 U. S. RUM SLEUTHS

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Wielding the ax of dismissal, General Lincoln C. Andrews, field marshal of the federal prohibition forces, today began to reduce his dry army by about 600.

Lack of funds will result in the "flogging off" of heads of many prohibition agents. Weeding out of least efficient officers and surplus sleuths will be simultaneous all over the country.

Administrators, with blanket orders to hire as many agents as they deemed necessary to enforce the law, took advantage of the privilege. Almost overnight the number of prohibition agents increased from 2000 to 3000.

The first backlash came when Comptroller General McCarl warned Andrews that the prohibition unit was exceeding its congressional appropriation. In less than six months, enforcement of the Volstead act cost more than $5,000,000. To balance the fiscal appropriation of $11,000,000 and prevent dry enforcement from piling up a deficit, the cut in personnel was necessary.

BRITISH IN DEBT PACT WITH ITALY

LONDON, Jan. 27.—The debt agreement between Italy and Great Britain, covering Italy's obligation to the latter nation, was signed today.

Count Volpi, Italian finance minister, leaving the treasury at noon after the formalities, announced that Italy would make her first payment March 15 and that the terms of the agreement would be made known later in the day.

The United Press was reliably informed that Italy's fixed annuities will be $21,250,000, representing a concession on the part of Britain, which originally held out for at least $22,000,000.

Sheik of Movies Lands In Gotham

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—"Let me have a little vacation," Rudolph Valentino, divorced sheik, exclaimed to reporters who met him as he landed from the liner Levantian today and asked when he would marry again.

"All my worries are over," the screen idol, whose wife, Winifred Hudnut, recently obtained a divorce in Paris, added.

Valentino was accompanied by his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alberto Guglielmi, and their 9-year-old son.

Rumors Gain Currency in Reichstag of Scheme to Upset Luther's Cabinet

(By United Press) BERLIN, Jan. 27.—The ex-kaiser's birthday was marked by a demonstration of unemployed at Breslau, where police clubbed participants and used the flat sides of their sabers to disperse the throng.

Meantime, an evening paper printed unconfirmed reports that Fascists were drilling in the nearby province of Brandenburg for a coup which should start first by cutting off the food of industrial centers.

Wild rumors were circulated here today of impending violent clashes. The reichstag was filled with rumors that the Nationalists, Fascists and Communists would combine tomorrow in voting against the new Luther cabinet and thereby cause its fall.

Monarchist-Fascist organizations were parading their forces. Simultaneously, the Communists and the Republican "Reichs Banner" organization were massing their followers to demonstrate against the proposed delivery of vast properties to the Hohenzollerns and other former royalty of Germany.

The Berlin police took elaborate precautions against trouble and claimed to be confident that the day would pass safely.

CROWN PRINCE ABSENT FROM WILHELM'S FETE

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—The former German kaiser, Wilhelm, celebrated his 67th birthday without the expected presence of his son, ex-Crown Prince Wilhelm, a fact which gave rise to reports that the Dutch government at the last moment had prevented his returning to Holland.

Such gossip leaked out from behind the closely guarded portals of Haus Doorn, pictured the former master of Germany as deeply disappointed and somewhat angered at the turn of affairs.

The proposed reunion was to have been the first since the ex-crown prince, fleeing his exile home on the island of Wieringen, sped across Holland and Germany to his great estate in Silesia.

While the absence of the ex-crown prince dimmed the kaiser's pleasure, he was somewhat consoled at having with him Princess Hermine, his second wife; his sister, Princess Heinrich; his sister, the Duchess of Braunschweig (Brunswick) and her husband, the Prince of Hessen (Hesse).

"The kaiser will be host at a Saturday to his family and to a number of outside guests. The crown prince's adjutant, Major Muelndner, denied that the Dutch government had forbidden the prince to enter Holland, but informed sources believe that the Hague "hinted" that a postponement of his trip would be desirable to avoid possible international complications.

The bill will be submitted to the interior department tomorrow to learn if it conforms to Work's views and for any additional changes that may be suggested.

Representative Smith, chairman of the house committee on irrigation, will have the new measure printed immediately and in the hands of the committee when it meets Friday to take it up.

Among those participating in the drafting conference with Senator Johnson and Representative Swing today were Ralph Criswell, member of the Los Angeles city council; William F. Carr, Pasadena; Thomas C. Yeager, attorney for the Coachella Water Users' association; Charles L. Childers, attorney for the Imperial Irrigation district; W. B. Mathews, special counsel for the city of Los Angeles; Tom C. Panter, Los Angeles city engineer, and F. W. Greer, Imperial valley rancher.

Officer Quits Army After 28 Years' Service; Acceptance Up to Coolidge

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 27.—Col. William Mitchell today submitted his resignation from the army, effective February 1.

The resignation was sent in the mails to the adjutant general of the army through the office of General Rockenbach, commander of the district of Washington. His action brings to an end a career of 28 years in the army and follows his conviction and sentence to five years' suspension for critical attacks on the administration of the national defense.

Mitchell Remains Silent. After submitting his resignation, Mitchell continued to refuse to comment on his case, and Representative Reid, Illinois, who represented Mitchell at the court-martial, also declined to discuss the case.

Announcement of the resignation was made at Reid's office in the house office building. Mitchell was not present, having decided to spend the morning at his home.

Mitchell has placed up with a chautauqua circuit for a nationwide speaking tour, to start about the middle of February. He also has contracted to write a series of articles on aviation for syndication. Further, he has made tentative plans to go on a big game hunting trip in Africa with Mrs. Mitchell later in the year.

Acceptance Up to Coolidge. President Coolidge must make the final decision to accept or reject Mitchell's resignation. The resignation will go through regular channels to the White House, military laws providing that the president must take final action on all resignations from the military services.

The usual wording of the resignation, in that it presents no reason for the action, places the legal branch of the army in a quandary as to what action can be taken. It is pointed out that resignations presented under similar circumstances have contained the clause "for the good of the service."

If it can be legally done, Secretary of War Davis probably will accept the resignation, which would mean that the president accepted the resignation.

Text of Resignation. "January 27. To the adjutant general, Washington, D. C. Through commanding general, District of Columbia. Subject: Resignation. I hereby tender my resignation as an officer of the United States army, to take effect Feb. 1, 1926. (Signed) "William Mitchell. "Colonel, Air Service."

The flying colonel, who rose to a generalship in command of the aerial forces of the American Expeditionary forces in France during the war, now plans to take his case to the people through lectures and a book, and later in the summer visit Africa for a big game tour.

Freed From Restraint. His resignation frees him from the restraint which continued service in the army, under the sentence of five years' suspension approved by President Coolidge, would have placed him. Almost immediately, he is expected to reopen his campaign for a unified air service in testimony before the house military affairs committee.

For nearly five years, Mitchell has been a storm center of the aviation controversy that came to a culmination in the investigation of the aerial strength of the United States by the Morrow board, appointed by the president, and Mitchell's own court-martial for breaching discipline by issuing statements criticizing his superiors.

Upon his return from service in France, for which he was awarded more medals than any other officer in the army except General Pershing, he was appointed assistant chief of the army air service, in which post he served for four years and finally was "demoted."

Advocates Drastic Changes. During all this time, he waged a vigorous campaign for increased recognition of the importance of aviation in modern warfare and advocated drastic changes in war and navy department policy toward its air service.

Advertising Body Complaint Stands

Commissioner Humphrey dissented. While thousands of flappers pelted him with tender missives, his wife, Kathryn, merely teased him great worry and mental suffering through constant scoldings and harassing, the screen Don Juan complained in superior court.

REDLANDS, Jan. 27.—Bishop Charles Burns, of the Methodist Episcopal church, is more concerned over the "flapper of 51 and the sheik of 60," than he is over the nation's youth.

"It is remarkable that our young people are as good as they are," Bishop Burns told Methodist ministers of the orange belt, gathered here. "They have no home life and yet they are more pious than you and I were."

"I like these boys and girls. I approve of their bobbed hair and powdered noses. I have addressed them in colleges from Maine to California, and find it difficult to be very pessimistic about them."

TO PUT 'DOVER
ROAD' TICKETS
ON SALE SOON

Sustaining patron tickets to "The Dover Road," Santa Ana Community Players' production, which opens a four-night run in the Ebell auditorium Wednesday, February 3, will be available tomorrow in the Santa Ana bookstore, while season ticket holders may make their reservations Friday and Saturday, and early admission ticket sales will open Monday, February 1, according to announcements made today by Miss Eloise Sterling, 1926 director. Rehearsals for the sparkling English comedy are in progress tonight, and those taking part in the production are enthusiastic regarding Miss Sterling's ability as director. Much interest has been expressed in the plot of "The Dover Road," but little has been disclosed other than that the theme is an unusual one, dealing with a man of wealth, who interests himself in a philanthropy that is decidedly "different."

This important role of the wealthy philanthropist, is entrusted to J. C. Hayden, a newcomer to Community Players, who will have the support and encouragement loaned by a group of seasoned players in the secondary but important and interesting parts of "Leonard," the juvenile lead, played by Warren Fletcher "Nicholas," played by Jack Bascom, and the Dominie, enacted by Robert Speed.

Miss Helen McPeak, well known to musical Santa Ana, by reason of her clever violin playing, will make her bow in local dramatic circles as the charming and delightful "Anne," ingenue in the cast.

Miss Kate Heffner, of Orange, with whose work she was familiar, as Miss Heffner has played with the Pasadena Community Players, with which organization the director formerly was identified.

Miss Heffner is said to bring a rare understanding of the part of "Eustasia" to her interpretation of that character.

The whole cast of characters promises an evening of enjoyment, such as the city has learned to expect from the Community Players. The complete cast for the play includes, in addition to those already mentioned, the staff of servants, Miss Margaret Cummings, Miss Tessie Childers, Leslie Steffenson and Valmer Clark.

Mrs. William Cummings and Miss Verna Peterson form the property committee; Mrs. William Spurgeon, Mrs. R. G. Spurgeon and Mrs. W. H. Dewolfe comprise the costume committee, and Miss Hazel Bemis and Mrs. Marshall Harnois will superintend the scenery details.

forces of the army and navy and such other services, such as the post office department, as maintaining airplanes.

He first commanded national attention with his criticisms of the bombing tests carried out on German war vessels turned over to the United States by the navy in 1921, scoring the navy for making out of them a "farce" to sustain its contention that the battleship was still pre-eminent.

Mitchell's second dramatic appearance before the public was during the house aircraft hearings in the spring of 1925, where he so vigorously assailed government air policy and his superior officers that John W. Weeks, then secretary of war, did not recommend him for reappointment at the end of his four-year term as assistant air chief, and in a letter to President Coolidge accused him of being a publicity seeker.

Mitchell Finally Demoted
The upshot of this was that Mitchell was "demoted" from his post as the rank of brigadier general that went with it and was sent to Texas with the rank of colonel, as air officer of the eighth corps area.

For several months, little was heard from the "flying colonel." Then in September came, in rapid succession, the Shenandoah disaster, the near-fatal Hawaiian flight and the unsuccessful attempt of navy flyers with the McMillan polar expedition to reach the suspected polar continent.

On September 5 and 9, Mitchell issued statements in San Antonio condemning the war and navy departments for "incompetence, criminal negligence and almost treasonable administration of the national defense."

The high command of the army could no longer follow its policy of coolly ignoring Mitchell, and orders were issued by the president for his court-martial for violation of the 96th article of war. His trial opened on October 28 and on December 16, after weeks of sensational hearings, Mitchell was found guilty and sentenced to five years' suspension of rank, pay and command. On January 25, President Coolidge approved the conviction, but allowed him half pay.

LEASE TROUBLE
LEADS TO SUIT
FOR DAMAGES

Difficulties between R. G. Adams, Fullerton automobile dealer, and his landlord, R. S. Robinson, proprietor of a garage adjoining Adams' salesrooms, were brought to the superior court for settlement today in the form of a $2000 damage suit, filed by Adams against R. S. Robinson, Charles Robinson and C. E. Robinson.

Adams, claiming that Robinson purposely is persecuting him in order to force his removal from the building, which Adams leased from Robinson, cites a number of alleged annoying acts on the part of Robinson.

Among these were the alleged hanging of signs over the windows of Adams' salesrooms, placing of other signs in front of Adams' signs, nailing a door to Adams' office and nailing a board sign over the office window, shutting out light and air, and erasing signs that Adams painted on his show windows.

Robinson, Adams charges, had boasted that he would oust Adams within 30 days. Besides the incidents mentioned, Adams' telephone, which is located in Robinson's part of the building, suddenly went dead, and once, while he was demonstrating to a prospective customer in the salesroom, his lights suddenly went out. Fuse plugs had disappeared from the box, which is located in Robinson's building, he said.

Robinson, he said, loaded radios in a portion of the space leased by Adams and the loud speakers drowned out Adams' sales talks.

Robinson also discontinued repair service to Adams' cars, it was charged, in violation of their lease agreement.

Adams, whose lease is said to continue until 1929, asks the court for an injunction against Robinson's alleged tactics and demands $1000 actual damages and $1000 exemplary damages.

A WORD OF COMFORT
You know now that there was no make-believe in the grief of your friends, whose hours of trial came sooner than yours did. You used to think that they were posing a bit, in order that people might know that they were suffering.
Try to be brave, for others cannot avoid watching you and wondering whether you have the strength to rise through your grief to better and more unselfish service than you ever gave before.

INJUNCTION CASE HEARING RESUMED

Superior Judge R. Y. Williams today resumed the hearing on petitions by H. J. Burdord and S. W. Miller to enjoin the city of Fullerton from maintaining drainage ditches along Harvard, Ash and adjacent streets, in Fullerton, for which Burdord has sued for $3000 damages and Miller, $2000.

The plaintiffs rested their case shortly after court opened today, after calling Clyde Butler, G. E. Lilly, E. E. Beasley, R. A. Marsden, H. G. Miller, F. Heying, H. W. Shults, H. J. Burdord and J. W. Hetebrink to the witness stand, to prove their contention that the ditches are inadequate for drainage during flood seasons and therefore constitute a menace to surrounding property.

The defense summoned A. G. Barnes as its first witness, following him with City Engineer W. C. Record, who testified regarding engineering plans for a proposed drainage district in the section concerned.

Girl Balks When Told to Appear On Speed Charge

When Miss Catherine Henderson, 1155 James street, San Francisco, said to be the granddaughter of Ralph F. Brackett, bay city millionaire, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the San Diego highway and charged by Officer F. G. Yoder with speeding 60 miles an hour, she balked upon being told to appear in court next Friday.

"I just won't be there," she is alleged to have told the officer. So Yoder escorted Miss Henderson and her grandmother, Mrs. Brackett, to San Juan Capistrano, where the girl faced Judge John Landell. Landell took bail of $40 for the girl's appearance in court February 5.

"We generally put 'em in jail for going so fast, but we hate to put women in jail," Landell said, as he took the money.

HUNGRY MINERS ARE FORCED TO LOOT FOR FOOD

GLACE BAY, N. S., Jan. 27.—Distress among the coal miners of Glace Bay and New Aberdeen, where there has been lack of steady employment in the collieries of the British Empire Steel corporation culminated in raids upon several provision stores by the unemployed. The storekeepers suffered the loss of considerable stocks in both places, and the one store in New Aberdeen was burned.

The disturbance followed mass meetings under the control of the United Mine Workers of America. They were called to consider any replies that might have been made by the Nova Scotia government to an appeal by the miners that the government come to their relief. The resolution declared that if aid were not forthcoming the miners would be forced to take what "we need wherever we can find it."

A telegram received by Mayor Morrison from Premier Rhodes said while the responsibility rested with the municipality of Glace Bay, he would recommend to the cabinet that the province guarantee a bond issue of the town for sufficient funds to satisfy the immediate requirements. The telegram was unsatisfactory to the men, who said their needs were so urgent that immediate relief was necessary.

The meeting was adjourned late in the evening, after which the men proceeded to various stores in Glace Bay and New Aberdeen and carried away large quantities of flour, meat and canned goods. Approximately 1000 men formed the band of the raiders.

Mayor Morrison said he was of the belief that no one municipality could cope with a condition of such serious proportion, since the entire community was bound up in the activities of the two collieries where unemployment had been rife for more than a year.

DR. GRAHAM HUNTER TALKS TO PASTORS

Attended by the majority of Santa Ana ministers, the Santa Ana Ministers' association held its regular meeting at noon on Monday in the Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Graham Hunter, of Fullerton, was the speaker of the day, presenting a report on the work of the World Christian conference, which met last summer in Stockholm, Sweden, and to which he was a delegate.

A report by Miss Dorothy Cartwright, of the junior college, on the plans and purposes of the Fellowship of Youth for Peace, was heard. Consideration was given a request from D. C. Clanton for cooperation with the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra, in connection with its proposal to offer the community a series of Sunday afternoon symphony concerts.

A vote of appreciation was adopted for the action of the automobile dealers in deciding to close their proposed auto show on Sunday.

MEXICANS PRESENT SCHOOL PROBLEM

Transient habits, on the part of the Mexican labor population, moving, as it does, from place to place in search of employment, are creating a number of difficult problems for the school authorities. It was revealed yesterday afternoon at the school board meeting, when a recommendation to make a survey of the Mexican district came up for discussion.

Superintendent Cranston pointed out that as a result of these transient habits, it has become increasingly difficult to arrange suitable programs for Mexican children and to distribute teaching loads among the various teachers assigned to Mexican schools.

For a short time one particular district may be crowded with children in the school age, only to be followed the next month by a general exodus to some other district, it was pointed out.

Housewives Are Warned Against Fake Repair Man

Santa Ana housewives have been asked to beware of the man who is said to be operating in Santa Ana as a telephone repair man and who has made several calls in homes, gaining entrance by posing as a telephone man.

Police are under the impression that the man enters homes to gain an idea of their inside construction, the information to be used later to rob the house.

E. S. Morrow, manager of the Santa Ana office of the Pacific Telephone company, today requested that all housewives ask men posing as telephone employees to show their badges before allowing admission.

LIGHTING HISTORY SHOWN IN DISPLAY

Among the marvels of the age, the method of lighting of today is one of the most interesting.

An instructive and valuable exhibit, showing the evolution of the lighting system from the time of 600 years before Christ up to the year 1920, is placed in the window of the Gem Electric company, East Fourth street, and is drawing much attention, particularly from high school and junior college students.

The Gem Electric company was given the privilege of having the exhibit for the first display in Southern California. It is the property of the National Mazda Lamp department and comes from the historical room of the General Electric company, Neely Park, O.

The lamps have been shown in many high schools throughout California and other states. Beginning with 600 B. C., the first pottery lamp is shown. It is a crude affair, burning olive oil. Then comes the light of 300 years later, a decorated pottery lamp, the Venetian lamp, of the fourteenth century, the Betty Lamp, of the sixteenth century, and then the candle, first used in 1800.

In the year 1820, the whale oil lamp came into use and the camphene lamp, 10 years afterwards. The coal oil, or kerosene lamp, was innovated in 1850, and the carbon lamp, which marked the beginning of a safer and more dependable method of lighting, was introduced in 1890.

The clear mazda lamp, which gives three times the amount of light of the carbon, was perfected in 1910, and the present day white mazda, known as "the perfect light," followed.

WILL NOT OPPOSE SOLICITING OF ADS

While the Santa Ana board of education will not endorse any scheme or method for soliciting and securing advertising for the 1926 high school annual, it has no objections to such an undertaking on the part of the student body.

This was the attitude adopted yesterday afternoon by the school trustees, following a request by delegates of the student body that they be allowed to solicit advertising for the annual.

It was pointed out that in other communities the high school annual is supported by advertising from merchants in the district. Attention was called to the fact, however, that the Santa Ana Merchants and Manufacturers' association has been opposed to giving advertising to publications of this nature.

Congenial Folk Meet For Dinner with Friendly Hosts

NE of last night's very pleasant affairs was the informal dinner with which Mr. and Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger entertained the members of a little club to which they belong, extending the hospitality of their home at 207 East Ninth street.

Dinner was served at 7 o'clock, the unusually spacious dining room of the Winbiger residence being arranged with two large tables and several smaller ones at which covers were placed for 30 guests. Low bowls of scarlet poinsettias were the colorful decorations chosen, and gave the touch of valentine red which suggested that approaching season.

Introducing an original idea, the hosts asked the feminine members of the party to seek their places at the table after which corresponding place cards were distributed among the men who were thus guided by chance to their dinner partners. Adding to the gay informality of the event, Mr. and Mrs. Winbiger dispensed with aid and served the delectable dinner themselves. The remainder of the evening was fully as enjoyable as was the dinner hour and was given over to music and kindred entertainment.

Current Events

Mrs. Ray Townsend, Mrs. Cyrus Lurker and Mrs. Jules Hilton were hostesses yesterday to their associates of Ebell's first current events section, entertaining at luncheon in the section rooms of the clubhouse. The manner of serving, added to the delicious menu, made the luncheon hour most pleasant. Tables were attractive in an orange color scheme maintained by petal-like candle holders with orange candles, resting on larger petalled plates bearing bonbons and salt nuts.

Following the three course luncheon, was a business interval presided over by Mrs. Arthur May, section leader. Real will was answered by a recital of events of current interest each followed by a discussion. Chief among business matters of interest were plans for a March dancing party and reports of the recent card party. The dance will be a St. Patrick affair and the date of course will be close to the birthday of the patron saint, March 17. The exact date will be announced later.

Reports of the committee in charge of the recent card party, showed that the affair yielded a little over $45 for the section treasury, in addition to a happy evening for members and a host of guests—enough to require 25 tables for bridge and 500 At 10:30 playing was concluded and sandwiches, fruit salad and coffee served, and prizes distributed.

Mrs. E. T. Mateer, scoring high, received a long-handled mirror while attractive arts and crafts swatters were awarded second and third score takers, Mrs. John Preble and Mrs. Lawrence Deane and a pair of pretty garters offered consolation to Mrs. Lewis Moulton. Among the men, Hugh Plumb scored high, Mr. Martin second and Arthur Leggett third. Each received ash receiver sets, varying in size and decoration.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to informal dancing to music from an Orthophonic loaned for the occasion by the Shafer Music house.

Following the financial report of the card party given yesterday, the section members assembled around card tables for a session of bridge in which Mrs. B. J. MacMullen, guest of the afternoon, carried off honors and was presented a handsome hand mirror. Mrs. Arthur May received a tiny hand-painted bon-bon dish as consolation.

Enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. Lurker and Mrs. Hilton, were Mesdames W. G. Knox, Homer Cheney, Norbert

Weather Forecast Has January Showers for February Bride

AD Miss Ora Decker consulted the almanac to see what special brand of weather had been promised for the past week, there is little question but what she would have found "Expect showers." For showers have prevailed in her vicinity in recognition of her recently announced betrothal to Carl Newton of Huntington Beach.

First to entertain in her honor was Miss Evelyn Trickey who greeted Stitches' Chatter club members at her home, 914 South Ross street. Miss Decker was unaware that the affair was planned in her honor, but was apprised of that fact at the refreshment hour which followed an interval of needle work and merry chat.

Miss Trickey chose pink and white as her color harmony and seated her guests at a huge charmingly centered with a table pink rose whose miniature counterpart was to be found in the dainty nut cups at each place. The final course of the supper, offered iced molded in rose form, Miss Trickey in her charming manner, took the opportunity to present the club's gift to the bride-elect, as the loss were served. The gift was a handsome one—a half dozen solid silver spoons of the pattern of Miss Decker's flat-ware in silver.

Enjoying the pleasant evening with hostess and honoree were the Misses Rita Cook, Herma Smith, Grace Alberts, Eulah Kaufmann, Evelyn Allen, Violet Allen, Hazel Koster, Minnie Koser, Eva Fath and Helen Decker.

Offering another variety of entertainment was the next in the week's series of showers, for 'twas a quilting party that Mrs. Elmer Taylor planned at her home, 1812 South Broadway, to compliment Miss Decker. The quilt squares which guests knotted into a cozy comfort, had been pieced by the honoree when she was a small maid of ten. The completed comfort will be one of the treasures of her hope chest, embodying as it does, her own childish efforts and the thoughtfulness of her friends.

As the afternoon drew to a close, the Misses Lillian Napier and Juanita Decker, attired as saucy little Hollanders, "brought home the laundry," insisting that the contents of a dilapidated basket they carried, belonged to Miss Decker and no one else. She found that the laundry consisted of really lovely gifts of a miscellaneous nature, showered upon her by the friends assembled.

Appetizing refreshments placed the crowning pleasures on an afternoon enjoyed by Mrs. Taylor, her honor guest, Miss Decker, Mrs. Elizabeth Decker, the Misses Blanche McDowell, Patti Wild, Helen Decker, Lillian Napier, Juanita Decker, Mesdames Walter Vieira, Charles Johnson, Jay Antisdell, Ralph Hedley, Josie Antisdell, Orlando James, Lloyd Day, Henry Jones, Ella Palmer, John Allison, I. D. Annis, Margaret Charles, Pauline Decker, Irving Doyle, Perry P. Schroek, S. E. Cook, Herman Smith, Edna Gowen, U. F. Vieira, Chas. H. Hoses and Ella Avery.

The third in the series of showery events, was when a generous array of kitchen and household articles descended upon the shoulders of the bride-elect when she was complimented by Miss Minnie Koser of 502 South Flower street.

Evening hours passed merrily as the guests heaped glass towels to the accompaniment of lively chat. The towels were to be a contribution to the linen supply of Miss Decker's hope chest.

When the evening's labor of love was completed, Miss Decker was told to go on a hunting expedition, and find the gifts that were secured in all manner of out-of-the-way hiding places. When all were found, she had an amazing assortment of useful and attractive gifts. A two-course supper completed the happy evening.

Miss Koser's guests included the honoree together with the Misses Eva Fath, Eulah Kaufmann, Hazel Koster, Herma Smith, Evelyn Trickey, Evelyn Allen, Violet Allen, Grace Alberts, Rita Cook, Helen Decker, Ora Decker, Mrs. Elizabeth Decker and Miss Koser.

Lentz, Arthur May, Harvey Bennett, John Estes Jr., Charles Chamberlain, Floyd Spencer, Harry Huffman, Charles Doty, William Fairbanks, Miss Norma Wingood, Mrs. Duncan and the section guest, Mrs. MacMullen.

Week's Calendar Has Wide Variety of Social Affairs

Philathea Party
The charming home of the Fred Zaisers on North Broadway was the scene of a gay party last night when their daughter, Mrs. Frances Weinrich, was one of a trio of hostesses entertaining the young women of the First M. E. Philathea class. Miss Margaret Marsh and Miss Mayme Dennison completed the hostess group and the guest to whom special honors were accorded was Mrs. Russell Thompson, a bride of recent date, formerly Miss Gertrude Stoneman.

St. Valentine offered a delightful decorative motif and in accordance with the idea, each guest brought a dainty valentine for which all fished later, in an improvised fish pond. Games and contests stressed the idea of valentines, lovers and weddings, one especially entertaining event being the free-hand cutting out of brides from sheets of white paper.

When the fish pond was introduced, Mrs. Thompson succeeded in landing the biggest fish of all, for her catch was a set of lovely crystal sherberts with goblets to match, gift of the class in recognition of her recent wedding. At the same time, Mrs. E. W. McCormack, the well-loved Philathea teacher, presented her usual gift to her class brides, a set of charmingly embroidered linen plate doilies. The gift is always presented with the understanding that the young husband is to have hot biscuits served on the doilies.

At a late hour the hostess trio served appetizing refreshments in keeping with the valentine idea of the evening.

Assembled for the pleasant event were the Misses Marjorie Lusk, Audra Fey, Grace Dennison, Gladys Heacock, Lena Hodgkin, Nellie Irvine, May Beamer, Gladys Bush, Ethel Coffman, Mary Coffman, Frances Steckeband, Lydia Fisher, Mrs. Russell Thompson, Mrs. O. G. James, Mrs. E. W. McCormack, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Northrup, Mrs. McCormack and the three hostesses, Mrs. Weinrich, Miss Marsh and Miss Mayme Dennison.

Birthday Event
A pleasant event of the earlier part of the week was the birthday dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clary, 1068 West Second street, in honor of Mrs. A. B. Clary, Mrs. Roy Stevens and Mrs. John Lacy. The table was beautifully decorated with sweet peas which added to the pleasure of the guests in the delicious dinner that was served.

The feature of the menu was the huge white birthday cake on which was written the names of the three honorees. After dinner the time was passed pleasantly in card playing.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Clary, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. John Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clary and small son, William Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Woods and daughter, Verine, Miss Ruth Garner, Joseph Garner and Miss Beverly Clary.

Appreciated Gift
Because Mr. E. H. Eyster, manager of the New York store, is leaving soon for Ontario where he has been offered a position as manager of an A. W. Caveness store, a number of employees at the local store planned a surprise for him and Mrs. Eyster, who has also been a New York store employee.

Since the pleasant party was arranged at the last minute, Mr. and Mrs. Eyster had no choice other than to be completely surprised when their self-invited guests descended on them at their home at 212 Pacific avenue. The guests brought with them a beautiful floor lamp which was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Eyster in memory of the many happy days spent working together.

Those participating in the surprise were Mrs. Pearl Richards, Mrs. Vera Bean, Mrs. Ethel Hedrick, Mrs. Marion Hill, Mrs. Tula Hicks, Mrs. Bess Wells, Mrs. Clara Frye, Mrs. Della Hendrie, Mrs. Eva Woods, Mrs. Katherine Emrich, Parker Adams and J. W. Prestell who has been made manager to succeed Mr. Eyster.

North Side Club
The meeting yesterday afternoon of the North Side club at the home of Mrs. Alice Meacham, 111 West Nineteenth street, was a very happy and congenial affair. The afternoon was spent in playing games

Visitor from Chicago Is Complimented at Bridge Luncheon

Red and white sweet peas used in profusion, blended beautifully with the valentine decorations, employed by the hostess in her luncheon arrangements of place cards, nut cups and similar dainty details. An enjoyable menu of salad with its accompanying sandwiches and relishes was followed by a sweets course which featured angel food cake with heavenly hash and coffee.

Pretty valentine score cards were distributed and bridge was introduced as the afternoon's diversion. Mrs. B. I. Wonder scored high and received an attractive gift as did Mrs. Ruddy, holder of low score. An equally pretty guest prize was presented Mrs. Goble.

Sharing in the pleasure of meeting the eastern visitor and enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. McKague were Mesdames S. I. Preble, Herbert Krahling, B. I. Wonder, L. Norman, W. Pagenkopp, R. Gilmore, O. A. Umberham, James Drake, T. F. Ham and R. Earl Ruddy.

Engagement News Told Friendly Group at Pretty Party

AUCY little Cupids ornamenting place cards at a gay evening party of last night, served to reveal to assembled guests news of the betrothal of the honoree, Miss Dorothy Bach to LaVerne W. Browne. The pretty affair was given by Mrs. Clyde A. Bach at the family home, 832 Garfield street, honoring the betrothal of her daughter and Mr. Browne, popular young Orange man, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Browne of the neighboring community.

Music, lively chat and amusing guessing contests furnished an entertaining evening which reached its climax when guests were asked to the dining-room. There they found places at a table beautifully arranged with pink sweet peas and smilax massed on the exquisite linen of the cover. Ropes of smilax entwined with sweet peas, swayed from the chandelier above a miniature bride and groom who occupied the center of the table.

Covers were placed for a dozen guests who immediately learned Cupid's secret from the dainty place cards, and showered the honoree, Miss Bach with their in-terested congratulations and good wishes. Mrs. Bach served chicken salad and sandwiches, followed by a delectable angel food cake and hot chocolate. She was assisted in pleasant hostess duties by Mrs. Eugene McBurney.

Guests were interested in learning details of wedding plans of the young people, but all questions failed to elicit any information as to when the event was to occur. Mr. Browne is at present in Los Angeles where he is connected with the Standard Oil company.

PLANT WIZARD TO REPLY FROM CHURCH PULPIT

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Jan. 27.—From the pulpit has come the most caustic criticism of Luther Burbank's definition of himself as an "infidel," and from the pulpit the plant scientist will make his reply, speaking Sunday in the First Congregational church, San Francisco.

Burbank's public appearance at this time, to amplify his views on eternity and divinity, is a coincidence only, according to Mrs. Burbank. She said today that the invitation of Dr. James L. Gordon, San Francisco pastor, had been accepted long before the controversy aroused by her husband's announced rejection of church dogmatic beliefs.

"Publicity," was Mrs. Burbank's comment on the "call to prayer to open the eyes" of Burbank, issued by the local W. C. T. U. Burbank is a life member of the organization.

"It simply is an attempt by the people of Main street to get a little publicity," declared the horticulturist's wife. "If these misguided, impertinent people would confine their activities to persons of their own caliber, they would be much more logical and perhaps accomplish some good. It is quite in line with the efforts frequently made to get rain by praying for it."

Burbank long has been known as an ardent prohibitionist, a contributor to the W. C. T. U. and in sympathy with its temperance aims. He uses no liquor or tobacco himself and will not employ any man of known drinking habits.

The plant wizard's comment, in reply to his critics, was general. "I rejoice in a good, square, open and above board fight, but I despise any man who will sneak under the cover of any clique or society of any name," he said.

BALBOA ISLAND

BALBOA ISLAND, Jan. 27.—Among the latest people to build a summer home here are the E. S. Robinsons, of Pasadena. Mr. Robinson, who is here building the house himself, states that he will have something unique in the building line as he will encase the building in composition shingles. The large, two-story house being erected for Louis Perry on Collins avenue is roofed with this material. The house Mr. Robinson is building is on Onyx.

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Perry and children are occupying their home on Onyx avenue for a few days, the first time they have been here since the accident that befell their son last July in connection with some explosives, wherein both the boy's eyes were injured. The sight of one eye is entirely gone, but the other one has been saved. Tiny pieces of the metal work out from the lad's face at intervals.

Mrs. R. M. Collier and T. E. Wallace, of Los Angeles, are spending a week in the Slopper cottage on Sapphire avenue.

Mrs. McCoy, of Orange, who bought the cottage belonging to Miss Kate Hubert, spends many of her week-ends here.

The Misses Griffith had as their week-end guests, Mrs. Grant D. Carver and daughter, Lorayne, of Hollywood, and Miss Alice Harrison of Los Angeles.

Mr. Pembroke and son, Floyd, of Los Angeles, occupied the Pembroke cottage over Sunday after a lengthy absence from the island.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Ducker and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McDowell and three children, of Eagle Rock, spent from Wednesday to Sunday in the Ducker cottage on Collins avenue. Mrs. McDowell is a daughter of the Duckers.

The Luther M. Morrills and Mr. Morrill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Morrill, of Los Angeles, were week-end visitors to the island. The Luther Morrills spend most of their week-ends here.

Everett Keene is building a house on Coral avenue for E. W. Crumley, of Hollywood.

The J. I. Hollisters, of Pasadena, had as their guests in their island cottage over the past week-end, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Dort, of Pasadena.

Interesting visitors to the island recently were Prof. Joseph Bejoan and family, who occupy the Brackett cottage while here. Prof. Bejoan is associated with Prof. Brackett at Pomona college as professor of history and art. Mrs. Bejoan and daughter, Miss Rose, are spending two weeks here, with Prof. Bejoan and their son, who is a freshman in the college, coming for the week-ends. The Bejoans have been in California but three years, having lived for many years in Switzerland, though they are natives of Spain. Professors Bejoan and Brackett visited the U. S. observatory at Corona del Mar this week.

Among the week-end visitors to the island were the J. S. Daltons, of Pasadena; the Joseph Taggart, of Altadena; the C. L. Youngs, of Los Angeles, and the Oberg, of the

HIGH TRIBUTE TO BE PAID BISHOP

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—High tribute will be paid to the memory of Bishop Joseph S. Glass, at his burial services here Friday.

The Salt Lake prelate, who died here yesterday after a short illness, will be accorded every honor within the power of the church. Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, San Francisco, will preside at the last rites.

The services will be at St. Vincent's church, where Dr. Glass was priest before he went to Salt Lake City in 1915, to become bishop of the Utah diocese.

A solemn pontifical requiem mass will be sung by the Right Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of Los Angeles and San Diego. Archbishop Hanna will preach the sermon.

The body will leave for Salt Lake City after the services Friday, for interment.

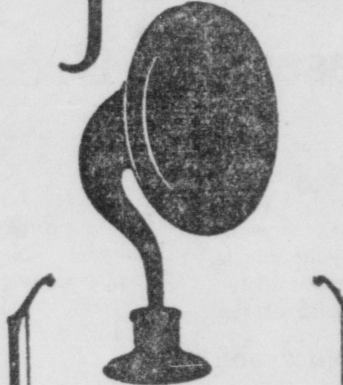

LOW TEMPERATURE REPORTED BY RANCH

Temperatures dropped as low as 26 above zero last night in certain orchards in Orange county. At the Mayberry ranch, on East Fourth street, a new equipment of firing pots, costing $15,000, was brought into effective use.

The manager of the ranch declared that at 3 o'clock this morning the temperature dropped to 28 above, when the firing pots were lighted. Through the use of these pots, the temperature was raised to 30 degrees. The new firing equipment is said to be of the most modern type, the density of the smoke being kept down to a minimum. Places adjoining the Mayberry ranch registered temperatures as low as 26.

Fifteen high school boys are being employed on the Mayberry ranch to light the firing pots.

PASTOR DWELLS UPON NAMES IN SCHOOL SERMON

What's in a name?

Graduating students of the Santa Ana junior high schools were told that a "good name is more to be desired than riches" at the mid-year junior exercises, held last Sunday night in the Spurgeon Memorial church.

The Rev. Moffett Rhodes conducted the service for Frances E. Willard and Julia Lathrop students, who will receive their diplomas Friday, entitling them to enroll in the polytechnic high school.

More than 100 students of the two schools were present for the service. The church auditorium was completely filled with parents and friends of the graduates.

The Rev. Mr. Rhodes took some of the common names of boys and girls, explaining their meaning back, sometimes, to their origin in Hebrew history. He said that all had the right to claim a good name and it developed upon them to keep it unimpaired.

"None of you are named Judas or Jezebel," the Rev. Mr. Rhodes said. He pointed out that these names had good original meanings but that they had become defamed by the actions of those who bore them.

LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 27.—Laguna Beach is busy socially, either an afternoon or evening affair being on the calendar for each day. There have been many exclusive bridge parties and but few larger entertainments where everybody meets everybody else. The dinner party which Mr. and Mrs. Roy Purpus were to have been given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Heisler, who were to have left for the South Seas at once, was postponed on account of Mr. Heisler's health, as was the luncheon in mind with Mrs. DeAnna had in honor guest. The Heislars are to go in a few days to Palm Springs for a couple of months.

An interesting social event was the tea given by Mrs. B. C. Mackey in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Schleicher, to introduce Mrs. Schleicher, who is a recent bride, to society. Mrs. Schleicher was, before her marriage, Miss Morte.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kirker, and her marriage in December was a big affair, the floral decorations for the event having been especially lovely. Mrs. Mackey asked to meet the new couple, Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston, Mrs. Roy Ropp, Mrs. Howard Sheridan, Miss Alice Fullerton, Miss Rebecca Hagaman, Mrs. H. H. Henshaw, Mrs. Eris Jamison, Mrs. Ruby Hickox, Miss Ruth Hickox, Mrs. Doris Lailor, Mrs. George Thompson, Mrs. Raymond I. Brahams, Mrs. James E. Randall, Mrs. Roy Peacock, Mrs. H. C. Hind, Mrs. Fred Warman, Mrs. Ernie Johnson, Mrs. W. E. Jenkins, Mrs. Ella Goodrich, Mrs. H. W. Planalp, Mrs. Frederick Elliott, Miss Pauline Jahraus, Miss Margaret Allen, Miss Mary Riker, Miss Emilie Boulanger and Miss Harriet Boulanger.

And then, of course, the community club's Monday night bridge is always something to look forward to. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston were host and hostess this week.

On Wednesday, Mrs. M. E. McMillan entertained at luncheon with bridge following in the afternoon. On Thursday, "Dreamy Knoll," the Thurston estate, will be the scene of a brilliant evening party, bridge being the attraction following a dinner. And on Friday night the bridge party at the Woman's club will command a goodly gathering as the club parties always do. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Warren gave a series of three bridge parties last week and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cravath have invitations out for a bridge evening. Combined with all these merry affairs, there have been several out of town parties at the several restaurants. Many smaller dinners have graced the week, notable among them being the one in honor of Miss Hazel Lambert, of Lincoln, Nebraska, given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston.

An afternoon tea at the beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Corrigan was featured by the fact that the guests were mostly of the artistic set; talk of art and music, of books and the hands across the seas made the hour unusually brilliant.

The various small clubs which play bridge every week or two have had their games and now society waits on the big event of the coming week, the concert next Friday evening to be given by Madame Beatrice Bowman, former star of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, and of the Montreal Grand Opera company. This event will take precedence over all other social functions.

SUPERIORITY too Great to be Overtaken

Today Chrysler is talked about and desired with even greater eagerness than two years ago, when it brought the first new note to motoring efficiency in years.

Chrysler was first to sweep old traditions aside. The new kind of performance, comfort and beauty which Chrysler created, captivated the public and exerted a tremendous influence on all motor car developments since that time.

But even the past two years have not brought any other car abreast of Chrysler.

Chrysler, meanwhile, has developed its own new measures of manufacturing fineness, new features of extraordinary equipment, new superiorities of performance and new standards of riding and driving ease—in the Chrysler "70" and the Chrysler "58" as well as in the new and superlative Chrysler Imperial "80".

The world has given recognition to outstanding Chrysler superiorities with a volume of popularity that sweeps beyond any previous height.

The purchase by the public of more than 280 million dollars' worth of cars of Chrysler manufacture during the first two years of Chrysler history takes premier rank among the industry's most brilliant achievements.

The Chrysler Corporation promises that the emphatic superiority which is the foundation of this overwhelming success, will be kept as far in advance as it is today.

FOREIGN RADIO STATION TUNED IN BY S. A. MAN

L. E. Lashley, 306 East Third street, Santa Ana, last night tuned in station 2LO, London, on his loud speaker and later on tuned in station 5TT, Birmingham, England, with his head phones, thus establishing himself, it is believed, as the first amateur radio operator south of San Francisco to meet with success in the international tests now in progress between American and European stations.

Lashley had several witnesses in his home to attest to the fact that his statement concerning 2LO was correct. He became so excited, it was said, that he called up several of his friends on the telephone and let them listen to the station over the land lines.

Carrier waves from several of the stronger European stations were detected by several amateurs last night but so far Lashley is the only operator who has reported that he could understand the announcing. Lashley owns an eight-tube set and uses an indoor loop aerial.

Encouraged by the success of Lashley, a number of Santa Ana radio "bugs" will continue the "fishing" operations tonight.

EUROPE REPORTS LITTLE SUCCESS WITH TESTS

LONDON, Jan. 27.—European amateurs reported today, with few exceptions, only indifferent success in picking up America's International Radio week test programs.

England's leading amateurs, P. Marcase and W. J. T. Crewe told the United Press that during the morning hours they had heard KDKA, the Pittsburgh Westinghouse station and other American stations, which they ordinarily can pick up, but that static prevented them from receiving the special American programs.

Berlin again reported that the government radio station had been able to tune in on KDKA faintly but no amateurs reported hearing anything from the United States. Related reports from Vienna said that the "Radio Wien" station heard America Monday night, while Joseph Sliskovitch, an amateur with a single-tube set, picked up an American station whose call, however, he was unable to identify.

SPEAKER, COLLINS, COBB ARE HONORED

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins were given special tribute for their great careers in the American league today, when Ban B. Johnson, president, announced that they had been added to the list of "most valued players" in the league.

These three veterans of the diamond, whose names have been near the top of the list for more than a decade, become members of the American league's "hall of fame" alongside George Sisler, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson and Roger Peckinpaugh.

Public sentiment, according to Ban Johnson, has demanded some recognition for the great work of Cobb, Speaker and Collins, whose careers are nearing an end. They have now been added to the hall of fame by unanimous consent of the baseball writers with Johnson's sanction.

Mrs. Ellis Will Speak In Church

Returning for a two weeks' series of special services in the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, Mrs. Jean Morris Ellis, character analyst and vocational counselor, will present the first lecture of her series on next Sunday evening. It is announced by the Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of the church.

Mrs. Ellis lectured for some weeks in the fall under the auspices of the Santa Ana Y.M.C.A.

The lectures to be given at the church will differ from those given at the Y. M. C. A. in that they will be of a distinctly religious character, but they will lose none of the popular interest from the standpoint of character studies, it is asserted.

On Sunday evening Mrs. Ellis will speak at the hour of the regular service, but during the week, she will talk at 7:30. Admission is free.

UNION JUNIOR COLLEGE MOVE TO BE RENEWED

A movement launched early last year to establish a county junior college in Orange county, in place of the two separate colleges now maintained in the county, will be renewed at a meeting of high school trustees and principals, to be held February 3 in the Orange union high school, it was learned today at the county superintendent's office.

According to those behind the movement, there seems to be a general demand throughout the county for the establishment of a union junior college, which, in matter of equipment, faculty and curriculum would compare with the best of its kind in the country. Such an institution, taking over the work carried on by the Santa Ana and the Fullerton junior colleges, it is asserted, would take in the entire county and thus work for a better community spirit along all lines.

When the movement was launched last year, the Fullerton interests did not entertain the proposition of losing their junior college, it was reported. There has been a noticeable change in this attitude, it is claimed, and all indications point toward concerted action.

The establishment of an up-to-date college in the heart of Orange county not only would serve the best interests of the people, but serve to advertise the county and attract home-seekers, it is asserted by those favoring the project.

GRANGE TEAM PLAYS PORTLAND SATURDAY

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 27.—"Red" Grange and his gang of two dozen Bears from mChicago dropped into Portland today from the South, ready to battle the best the Pacific Northwest can produce for a football team.

George Wilson, All-American halfback from the University of Washington, was here, too, presumably to play against Grange, although he made it known his name was not yet on the dotted line. Wilson wants to be paid in advance before he agrees to play and he also wants to have the assurance there will be a good line in front of him before he is willing to take on the game.

"The Chicago Bears have the biggest and best line I ever saw on a football field," he said.

THERE'S JAZZ IN HONEY. BEE MEN OF STATE ARE INFORMED

Weary Lounge Lizards May Be Interested in This New Bit of Intelligence

REFRESHING FOR SOCIALLY ELECT

Lessons in Rearing Queens Are Given to Members of California Association

There's a jazz in honey. Not the kind found in booze, but a kind that really supplies the hankering many still have since prohibition went into effect.

It's the kind that the tired lounge lizard or the bored society matron looking for a kick should investigate. Proof of this is seen in the increased use of honey in confections of all kinds, particularly in candies and ice cream. Makers of the "luxury" food products are turning to honey to supply the kick and that it is succeeding for them is seen in their increased use of honey, said K. Hawkins, of Watertown, Wis., addressing the California beekeepers at the Willard junior high school, yesterday afternoon.

Scientists and beekeepers have long known the food value of honey, but without a national medium of expression, they were powerless to pass this on to the public. Hawkins said. With the help of the confectioners, the beekeepers are putting honey over the States of thickly settled population like Indiana, where the annual honey production is frequently 9,000,000 pounds, are using all they consume and looking to states like California to supply their deficiency in carlots, he added.

Food Value of Honey.

Hawkins continued: "The food value of honey comes from the fact that it contains three sugars, gathered from the flowers in the form of nectar and modified in its water content into honey. Besides the common or garden variety of cane sugar, it also contains dextrose and levulose, all in such a modified form that they are easily assimilated by all. As all sugars are known to dietitians as energy producers, the use of sugar is becoming widespread to supply the kick missed since Andy Volstead removed the most common one from general use.

"California stands to benefit from this increased use of honey perhaps more than nearly any other western state, for eastern buyers are demanding California honey in carlots. In some cities, New York for instance, California honey is for sale in dozens of grocery stores. In other localities where dark honeys are produced, California is in demand for blending in order to raise to a lighter shade the honey that is offered for sale in these territories. With her facilities for moving honey by boat through the Panama canal to New York City and even to Europe, California is gaining widespread recognition in the eastern markets of the country."

Honey producers of California were urged to take an active part

MAGAZINE IN EUROPE WANTS LOCAL PHOTOS

While wealthy American tourists are crowding the trans-Atlantic liners on their way to Europe in search of scenery and climate and what not, the incomparable beauty of their own country, with its scenic attractions amidst varied climes, is beginning to attract more and more notice in foreign countries.

Evidence of this fact is a communication received by C. S. Brown, local agent of the Union Pacific railroad, from "Kosmos," Stuttgart, Germany, asking for photographs of beauty spots in Orange county. Stuttgart is the capital of the former kingdom of Wurttemberg. "Gesellschaft der Naturfreunde" may be translated into English as an association of nature lovers. It publishes a magazine, entitled "Kosmos."

The communication goes on to say that the fame of Orange county's beauty spots and scenic attractions, located in the "garden spot" of California, has been called to the notice of the publishers of the magazine.

"We should like to show the readers of our 'Kosmos,' the most widely circulated review of its kind published in the German language, photographs of your wonderful country," the communication says.

In addition to suitable photographs, the letter asks for such descriptive material as will give readers and prospective travelers a fair idea of the country.

ACTIVE WOMAN PASTOR CARES FOR BIG FLOCK

Rev. Lucy Whittier Woodford in Fourth Year As Minister in Villa Park

Over among the orange groves of Villa Park expressing the philosophy of Sam Walter Foss, in that she chooses to "live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man," is a dynamic and forceful little woman, who preaches the gospel of Jesus Christ to a congregation of loyal followers—the Rev. Lucy Whittier Woodford, pastor of the Villa Park Congregational church.

The Rev. Mrs. Woodford is one of a trio of woman preachers of which Orange county has been able to boast, the other two being Mrs. F. T. Porter, wife of the pastor of the First Christian church of this city, herself a regularly ordained minister of the gospel, and the former Bessie Mae Randall, now Mrs. Bert W. Bruffett. Of the three Mrs. Woodford is the only one really filling a pastorate, for she conducts services regularly in the Villa Park church, performs wedding ceremonies, conducts funerals, rejoices, weeps, sympathizes and consoles with her flock in its joys, sorrows, pains and woes.

Mrs. Woodford trained for ministerial work in the Boston University School of Theology and followed her studies there with active duties in Boston, where her first pastorate is now known as Ramsey church. She went from the conservative atmosphere of the Hub of the Universe to the more colorful, cosmopolitan life of Washington, D. C., where she taught theology in the Deaconess college, a Methodist institution.

Feeling the need of country experience, she moved westward and had charges in rural and urban districts in Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota, leaving the ministry for a brief interval of married life which, interrupted by the Grim Reaper, brought a sorrow which gave the young wife an understanding of other people's griefs.

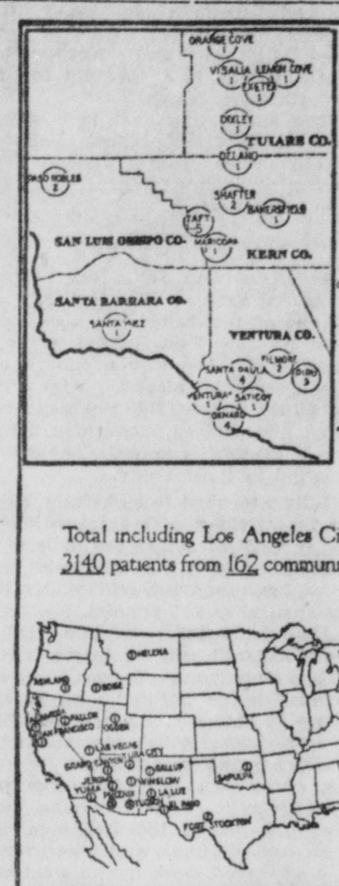

The next few years brought other enriching experiences and included, in addition to a return to the ministry the teaching of physical culture and allied subjects in the Flowers Dramatic school, of Cincinnati.

Her marriage to Ralph A. Woodford, in Kansas, and a subsequent removal to this state, brought the minister into her present great work among the young folks of the Villa Park neighborhood. For it is the young folks to whom the "Little Minister" makes her most pronounced appeal. And the Woodford home, in the Orange belt, always is the favorite gathering place of boys and girls. There they find a sympathetic and understanding spiritual leader, congenial and thoughtful host and a never-failing hospitality.

"Mr. Woodford feeds them bread and jelly, but I feed them the catechism," declares the minister humorously, and the combination seems to be one upon which youth thrives, for the Villa Park church has a large attendance of youthful members.

This is the fourth year of Mrs. Woodford's pastorate there.

INDIANS HELD TO EXCEL IN COLOR BLENDS

Squaws are more artistic in the blending of colors in the fabrication of articles they make than is the best and highest paid designer employed in the development of novelty goods, in the opinion of William McGinnies, of Long Beach, as expressed in a two-minute talk yesterday at the meeting of the Santa Ana Exchange club.

McGinnies was a visitor at the meeting and spoke on request of Floyd Croddy, president of the club. He declared it a shame to send alleged instructors among the Indians in an effort to teach them so-called arts as practiced by Americans.

He pointed out that, through their life on the desert, their eyes and minds have been trained to the beautiful combination of colors as created by the Almighty in ever-changing hues.

McGinnies was engaged in merchandising for many years and has passed a great deal of his life among the Indians.

George A. Ward and O. H. Meyer, also of Long Beach, accompanied McGinnies here. Ward made a short talk.

A recital of some of the points in his business, the florist, was made by Merle Morris, and Cliff Phillips presented a description of the operations here of the Christopher company, of which Ridely Smith, a member of the club, is manager. A member each week visits another member, learns the details of his business and presents them to the club.

Eleanor Young Elliott offered a surprise feature on the program by appearing as a book agent and soliciting recent benedicts and near-benedicts to purchase a book book. The agent "kidded" the club members for an alleged slight, and declared she was imposing purchase of the book of recipes as a fine for the asserted slight. Six books at $1 each were quickly sold.

Miss Helen Hull, of Rankin's, entertained the club with an interpretation of the Charleston.

THREE THOUSAND CRIPPLED CHILDREN RECEIVE AID AT L. A. ORTHOPAEDIC HOSPITAL

Perhaps there is no institution in Southern California that is doing more humanitarian work—work of restoring broken bodies to normalcy—than that of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School at Los Angeles. Hundreds upon hundreds of little crippled boys and girls who seek admission there are being rendered expert surgical aid.

There are 3140 crippled children from 162 communities north, south, east, and west have found their way to the welcoming portals of this haven during the last three years.

It is doubtful if any of the industries of which California is so proud, can show a greater record of progress in the same length of time, than the Orthopaedic Hospital-School—nor any record in which California citizens can take more pride. For here is an "industry" which replaces the weakened, paralyzed, tired, little crippled bodies of children, with strengthened, strengthened and active physiques of normal—or near-normal—children. An "industry" which has steadily kept pace with the tremendous growth of Los Angeles city and all Southern California, whose records of restoration show an increase of more than 800 per cent in registration during the three years it has been located at its present address, 2400 South Flower street, Los Angeles.

No Geographical Boundaries

Naturally, the greater proportion of these crippled children have come from California—Southern California—where the problem of transportation is more easily solved. But a glance at the Service Map shows amazing scope—for boys and girls have registered from Montana, Washington, Idaho, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, even from far away New York and Pennsylvania. It is the hope of restoration that has lured them to California, for the success which has attended the efforts of the medical and surgical staff of the Orthopaedic Hospital-School has spread far. Here they join the great number of California's own boys and girls—little crippled children—only a small percentage over 15 years of age, suffering from orthopaedic deformity of arm, back, hip or leg, often discouraged in mind and spirit. And, because, like other "industries" of California, the Orthopaedic Hospital-School draws no geographical boundaries in its service, they have been made welcome. From every section, county and town they have come, and have found restoration to normal, healthy childhood at the hands of California's generous citizens.

For the Orthopaedic Hospital-School is a charitable institution, supported almost entirely by the voluntary gifts of men and women who are the friends of these crippled children.

Plans for New Buildings

And it is for the sake of little crippled children that this Los Angeles Orthopaedic Hospital-School must increase its building space. For crippled children are coming in ever increasing numbers, as those who have been treated at the Hospital-School have returned, benefited, to their homes and spread the good news. It has already become necessary to establish "waiting lists" for entry, for operative dates, for the receiving of braces when casts are ready to come off, because the institution is sadly hampered by lack of space. There is urgent need for a second operating room, convalescent wards and an adequate school room wherein these boys and girls may continue their education during their stay at the hospital, for crippled bodies newly

S. A. LAD IMPROVES UNDER RIGHT CARE

Encouraging reports have been received from the Orthopaedic Hospital-School for Crippled Children in Los Angeles, regarding the restoration to activity of little Norman Stout, 10 years old, who lives just out of town and who is a patient there undergoing treatment for osteomyelitis of the left leg. Four operations have been performed during Norman's three months stay at the Hospital-School, and he has been a very sick little lad.

The last three weeks have seen a decided change for the better, however, and Norman is again taking a normal interest in the busy life of the Hospital-School as it flows around his bed in the younger boy's ward. He has picked up his courage in mind and spirit. And, because, like other "industries" of California, the Orthopaedic Hospital-School draws no geographical boundaries in its service, they have been made welcome. From every section, county and town they have come, and have found restoration to normal, healthy childhood at the hands of California's generous citizens.

For the Orthopaedic Hospital-School is a charitable institution, supported almost entirely by the voluntary gifts of men and women who are the friends of these crippled children.

Plans for New Buildings

And it is for the sake of little crippled children that this Los Angeles Orthopaedic Hospital-School must increase its building space. For crippled children are coming in ever increasing numbers, as those who have been treated at the Hospital-School have returned, benefited, to their homes and spread the good news. It has already become necessary to establish "waiting lists" for entry, for operative dates, for the receiving of braces when casts are ready to come off, because the institution is sadly hampered by lack of space. There is urgent need for a second operating room, convalescent wards and an adequate school room wherein these boys and girls may continue their education during their stay at the hospital, for crippled bodies newly

LOCAL GIRL IS RECOVERING AT L. A. HOSPITAL

Winifred Nelson, a ten-year-old girl of 725 South Parton street, who was stricken with infantile paralysis last summer, is being gradually restored to normal health and activity, according to a report from the Orthopaedic Hospital-School for Crippled Children in Los Angeles, where Winifred has been a patient for several months. So promptly was her case attended to that, in spite of severe paralysis to her lower limbs, operations were unnecessary, and muscles and nerve centers are being restored through corrective exercises, muscle baking and massage, and relaxation.

Winifred is now walking again with the aid of braces and crutches, taking daily exercises on the big "gym" floor that would tire many normal youngsters of her age. She is also learning to swim in the outdoor pool under the direction of the hydro-therapy instructors, a particularly pleasing form of exercise that brings joy to every boy and girl, and is proving of splendid value in muscle training.

School work goes on regularly, and Winifred has not lost a day of her education through her illness. Time will prove a big factor in her complete restoration to normal activity, but it is confidently expected that by the time Winifred reaches young womanhood she may drop her crutches and braces and take her usual place in the life of her home and friends.

E. FIRST STREET WILL BE REPAVED

George Simpson will start repaving East First street, from Main street to the east city limits, on Monday or Tuesday, it was announced today, following the signing of the contract for the work by Simpson.

The contractor will move his paving equipment here from Whittier the latter part of this week, and expects to start the contract early next week.

Closing of East First street will result, and traffic to San Diego and the south will be routed by way of East Fourth street, or East Chestnut avenue. The latter street is not paved, except to the Santa Fe railroad tracks. It was pointed out today that it will not be a popular avenue of exit from the city to the south, unless the unpaved portion of the street is improved to Lyon street.

PEACE MOVE IN S. A. SCHOOLS IS CONDEMNED BY SCHOOL BOARD

Trustees Vote Unanimously Disapproving Organization Action in S. A.

DECLARE Y. M. C. A. FOSTERS EFFORT

Action Follows Denouncement of Fellowship in P-T. A. Meeting Address

By an unanimous vote, the Santa Ana city school trustees yesterday afternoon, at their regular meeting, went on record as disapproving of what is termed the "Fellowship of Youth for Peace" movement, which it was reported, has a number of followers among the students in the Santa Ana junior college. Trustee Edwin McFadden was not present at the meeting.

Coupled with this action, the trustees directed City Superintendent J. A. Cranston to call the attention of all principals and teachers to the provisions of paragraph 1672a, prohibiting the distribution of bulletins, propaganda and campaign literature in the public schools.

A considerable portion of yesterday's meeting was devoted to discussion of the aims and purposes of the so-called peace movement. Attention was called to the fact that it has been denounced as Soviet propaganda in certain quarters. Reference also was made to a recent meeting of the county P-T. A. in Garden Grove, where the aims of the movement were seriously questioned by a Los Angeles speaker.

Fostered by Y. M. C. A.

Called for an explanation of the activities of the fellowship movement in the Santa Ana junior college, Principal D. K. Hammond said that it originated with the Y. M. C. A. branch in the college. He further declared that the idea was brought back to the college by students who had attended a Y. M. C. A. conference, held last year in Asilomar, Calif. He went on to say that practically all of those interested in the movement are members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

In voicing their disapproval of the fellowship movement, the trustees present made it plain that their action had only to do with the movement as a school activity and was not to be taken as a form of censorship.

In the course of the discussion that preceded the formal action of the trustees, some of the teachers of the junior college, reported to be favoring the movement, came in for their share of criticism.

To Remove War Causes

According to data presented at the meeting, the Fellowship of Youth for Peace movement was one of the outgrowths of the Student Volunteer convention, held in Indianapolis, Ind., early in 1924. According to a statement of purposes at that time, the organization was "to strive for the removal of all causes of war; to work for the establishment of a social order, based on the co-operation for the common good; and in all things to seek the unswerving practice of the principles of Jesus, not only in time of peace, but also in time of war."

Stage and Screen

WEST COAST-WALKER.

Showing for the last times today and tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker theater is "The Merry Widow" proclaimed by critics as the outstanding picture of the year. It presents one of the most significant combinations effected for the screen. It unfolds a picturesque romance of a gallant prince and a popular American dancer in a small continental kingdom, and in the hands of Erich von Stroheim, ideally suited to stage such a thing, the production is said to fulfill all that which was expected of it.

The title role, entrusted to Mae Murray, furnishes this poignant actress with the best role of her career, and gives her full opportunity to display the charm, vivacity and talent for which she is so justly famous.

John Gilbert who co-stars in this picture with Mae Murray gives a performance, that brings him still further to the front as a popular idol.

Von Stroheim has a recognized genius for selecting types that are remarkably fine actors, and they inspire them to do the best work of their careers. The result is that each character stands out like a rare intaglio.

The cast includes such favorites as Roy D'Arcy, Tully Marshall, George Fawcett, Dale Fuller, Josephine Crowell, Estelle Clark, Don Ryan, Hughie Mack, Edward Connelly, George Nichols and Lon Poff.

On the stage in special prologue to the picture will be Al Steiner and band, Robert Bradford and others.

WEST END THEATER.

For the first time in his screen career, Julian Eltinge, famed female impersonator, appears in a comedy which makes no claim to being a fashion show. This is "Madam Behave," an adaptation of "Madam Lucy," a French farce by Jean Arlette, featuring Julian Eltinge and Ann Pennington, which is the big attraction at the West End theater.

The farce has, of course, been Americanized. The story is based on the legal premise that a wife cannot testify against her husband. But after this ponderous assertion, sobriety departs, never to return.

Briefly, for the complications are legion and the gags hilarious—the story deals with a young architect, Jack Mitchell, who loves Gwen Townley, a gay, little girl, but falls quite miserably to meet the standards set down by the girl's guardian, Seth Morgan.

By a twist of fortune, Jack is compelled to wear a woman's dress and, presumed to be "Madam Brown," a missing woman whose presence as a witness in a legal action is heartily desired by two old cronies, he is responsible for most of the many laughable incidents that transpire throughout the action. Petite Ann Pennington, who has danced through so many film scenes, plays Gwen. Chic in flowered chiffon and unconcerned chapeau, she is a splendid foil for the stalwart Julian.

The supporting cast is a strong one. It includes Lionel Belmore, David James, Tom Wilson, Jack Duffy, Stanhope Wheatcroft and Evelyn Francisco.

YOST THEATER

Joe Reed and Julia Ray offer a little skit entitled "The Bullfighter," as one of the vaudeville headliners now at the Yost. Reed plays a mouthorgan the way a mouth organ should be played. Miss Ray can should the part of the Spanish senorita and dances excellently before the bullfighter's arena. The act is original in its entirety.

Billy Starnard is rightfully billed as the "xylophonist extraordinary" for this artist makes the little mallets dance over the keyboard and bring forth melodies seldom equaled by any other xylophonist.

Everybody, who ever has tried to get "central" will be interested in "The Telephone Tangle," which brings Joe Bennett and a large company of actors and actresses. This is one of vaudeville's standard acts, which has had an exceptionally long run, and which seems to be a perennial favorite. "The Telephone Tangle" has played the Orpheum circuit several times, and wherever it has appeared, both in the west and the east it has proved itself a riot of fun.

Nora Kelly is one of the very few stage luminaries billed as an Irish favorite that comes from the Emerald Isle. The witty, pretty Nora, born in Dublin town, is blessed with all the musical talent and humor so often accredited to the sons and daughters of Erin.

Something new in aerial displays will be seen when the Ruth Howell Duo occupy the stage. These persons are known as America's premier aerialists. A sensation will be a toe to toe catch accomplished by Miss Howell, who is said to be one woman in this country capable of such a performance.

"The Live Wire," a picture featuring Johnny Hines, will be the screen attraction.

62 Intermediate Pupils Graduate

ANAHEIM, Jan. 27.—Sixty-two new "freshies" will make their appearance on the campus of the Anaheim union high school next Monday morning as the result of the mid-year graduation of grade 8-a students at the Fremont intermediate school, Melbourne A. Gauer, city superintendent of schools, announced this morning.

Grade 8-a is made up of pupils who have completed their grammar school work in the middle of the eighth grade.

In the high school, these mid-year or "sub" freshmen will take only a portion of the regular course during the present semester of the school year. Some will perhaps be able to finish their high school work with the other students of the school, in three and one-half years' time, while many will be required to attend high school for four and one-half years.

ORANGE

ORANGE, Jan. 27.—Members of the Orange Woman's club chorus were delightfully entertained Monday afternoon by Mrs. A. D. Burkett at her home at 275 North Grand street. There were 18 members present to enjoy Mrs. Burkett's hospitality. Vocal solos by Mrs. R. B. Wallace, Mrs. Albert Rohrs and Mrs. W. J. Sutherland and a duet by Mrs. A. D. Burkett and Mrs. Albert Rohrs added to the pleasant-ness of the occasion. Much merriment was afforded by the nursery rhymes which were acted out by each guest. Mrs. C. A. Magill was awarded the prize for the best presentation. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the afternoon.

The Book Review section of the Orange Woman's club celebrated its first anniversary Monday afternoon with a delightful birthday party at the clubhouse on South Center street. Following a social afternoon spent with various games including "bookology," a new and novel pastime, the members adjourned to the tea tables where a dainty luncheon was spread. The tables were centered by a huge beautifully decorated birthday cake. To Mrs. Mabel Faulkner, city librarian, went the honor of cutting the cake. Mrs. Faulkner was also presented with a beautiful wall mirror by Mrs. Walter Pixley for her efforts on behalf of the club.

Monday evening marked the first anniversary of the Business and Professional Woman's club since its reorganization, so the members celebrated with a jolly birthday party at the Woman's clubhouse. After the refreshment hour, the rest of the evening was whiled away with cards. The unique tally cards carried out the color motif of pink and white. During the meeting, plans were laid for a Valentine dance, to be given by the club at Odd Fellows' hall on February 13.

Ray West, of Los Angeles, and E. B. Dreyfus, of San Francisco, were Sunday visitors at the Henry Meier home.

Mrs. George Cannon and baby, of Los Angeles, have returned to their home following a visit with Mrs. Cannon's cousin, Mrs. Henry Meier, of East Chapman avenue.

HAYS BANISHES LONG LINES OF MOVIE EXTRAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27. — Will Hays swung his sceptre of authority here and with one fell swoop banished the long lines of extra girls who clamor daily at the studio gates for jobs in the movies.

Hays has just officially opened his central casting bureau, where the extra girls, said to number between 10,000 and 15,000, are to seek for employment hereafter, instead of at the studios.

The revolutionary scheme is designed to eliminate the ceaseless processions of heart-broken girls, turned gruffly away each day by the casting directors. It is intended also to do away with the multitudes of employment agents who "prey" on film-struck extra girls, extracting a percentage from their meager savings and earnings for placing the applicants in pictures.

"The bureau is open to every girl who wants to get into the movies," announced Hays, "providing she has the necessary qualifications."

"Capable girls will have greater opportunities hereafter to get parts in pictures, in view of the stabilizing effect of the one central bureau, and elimination of the unit."

"The bureau has been in the forming for two years and will result in elimination of practically all the grievances that the motion picture extras have had in the past."

IMPORTING OF MEXICANS AS LABORERS HIT

By C. B. DODDS
(Special Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Further Mexican immigration to California to handle seasonal crops will be vigorously opposed by Congressman Flaherty, who announced his intention to demand an investigation of the Mexican immigration situation if efforts to import labor of this type are continued.

"I am informed that the cotton growers of the San Joaquin valley have plans to import several thousand Mexicans to pick their cotton," Flaherty said. "Before they do this, I want a federal investigation made to determine whether there are not enough laborers of this class in California now. There were 300,000 Mexicans in California in 1910 and thousands of them are unemployed. There were nearly 5000 laborers imported last year and the economic situation with many of them is pitiable. In Orange county, with only 10 per cent of the population Mexican, 60 per cent of the county aid cases are Mexicans. Two-thirds of the free milk distributed in San Diego is to Mexican families. In the outskirts of Los Angeles, there is a colony of 12,000 Mexicans living under the worst sanitary conditions."

"These conditions must be alleviated before we bring more of these people to California. I have had two conferences recently with President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, and I know the American and Mexican labor federations have been in conference lately on this very question. The trouble is our large employers go to Mexico and take the cream of their labor market and after the seasonal work is finished they are left to shift for themselves."

Thos. Williams, 22-year-old San Francisco boy, is a prisoner of the French army in Morocco and is in danger of being shot as a deserter from the French foreign legion. According to word received by the state department from Senator Shortridge. As a result of the senator's interest, Secretary Kellogg has dispatched a cable to the nearest American consul, asking him to investigate the boy's case.

Wesley T. Williams, well known in Spanish war veteran circles in San Francisco, is the boy's father. The youthful Williams enlisted when he was 18, two years ago, and was sent with the foreign legion to fight the Rif. He was captured August 15, last, by the tribesmen, and after being in prison two and a half months, he escaped to Tangiers. There he was arrested by the French military police and charged with desertion.

In a letter smuggled out by a fellow prisoner, young Williams writes that he is underfed and ill-treated and that he is about to go to trial. Although he has pleaded to be given permission to consult the American consul, this privilege has been denied him, according to his letter.

The delegation of native born Chinese in Washington from California, seeking an amendment to the immigration law whereby native sons of Chinese extraction might import Oriental wives, is getting little satisfaction from the California delegation. They have had to go to other delegations to have the necessary bill introduced.

Representative Dyer, of Missouri, author of the anti-lynching bill, has introduced a bill in the house and it is understood that Senator King, of Utah, will put the bill in the senate.

Senator Johnson, of California, and Congressman Johnson, of Washington, the chairmen of the two immigration committees, hold out small hope of any action in this congress because of the desire of friends of the present immigration act not to open it up for an amendment for any purpose.

A bill increasing the salaries of post office messengers, watchmen and laborers has been introduced in the house by Congressman Flaherty, of San Francisco.

The bill divides employees of this class into two grades, first and second, and specifies that first grade employees shall be paid $1600 annually, and second grade employees $1750 annually, and that promotion from the first to the second grade shall be made after a year's satisfactory service.

Substitute messengers, watchmen and laborers will be paid at the rate of 60 cents an hour, according to the bill.

Deaths in California from acute alcoholism jumped from 35 per 100,000 population in 1920 to 133 in 1924, according to a table inserted in the Congressional Record by Senator Edge during a recent debate on prohibition. The figures, Senator Edge said, were obtained from the census bureau. In 1921, there were 70 deaths per 100,000; in 1922, 107 in 1923, 109.

No further government improvement of the Monterey harbor was recommended by the board of army engineers, in a report just received by Congressman Arthur M. Free. The board does, however, recommend the maintenance of the harbor in accordance with the existing project for the benefit of the fishing fleet.

Our Neighbors

SAN DIEGO.—San Diego will continue to voice emphatically its claim to a just share of the waters of the Colorado river. This was decided by the city council and a conference was set for Friday afternoon for further discussion of the Colorado project and San Diego's chances to eventually benefit from the proposed development of that great water course. Action was decided upon chiefly because of Los Angeles' activity in the matter. Councilman Heilbron called attention to the fact that Los Angeles already is starting construction of an aqueduct to bring the Colorado waters into that city and insisted that San Diego shouldn't go to sleep at the switch. Mayor Bacon argued that San Diego's application for a share of the water is already on file in Washington, but agreed with Heilbron that the city should continue to press its claim at every opportunity. The time will come, it was agreed, when San Diego, as a big city, will have exhausted its present water sources and will need all of the water from the Colorado that it possibly can get.

SAN DIEGO.—An "anti-boom" spirit prevailed in the city hall which may have the effect of holding San Diego down to its substantial, natural growth and enable the city to avoid any more "boom days" and disastrous consequences, such as are threatened. Declaring that he is unalterably opposed to the "boom cloud" that seems to be spreading over San Diego, City Manager Rhodes said that he will require such extensive improvements on all new subdivisions that the exploiting of bare, undeveloped tracts of land will be out of the question and keep San Diego safely out of the Florida class.

VAN NUYS.—Several more subscriptions have been added to the $14,000 already subscribed to the $30,000 fund that is being raised to drill deeper the 2900-foot oil well on the southwest edge of Van Nuys owned by a group of leading citizens. In an effort to raise the entire fund before new operations start, a committee has been appointed to solicit all adjacent property owners. Among the most conservative here there is belief that oil in paying quantities underlies Van Nuys. The well will probably be sunk to a depth of 5000 feet before the drilling test will have been completed.

HUNTINGTON PARK.—With the voting of West Maywood into the city of Huntington Park by a 2-to-1 vote, the community of Bell is now circulating a petition, which, when a sufficient number of signatures are secured, will be presented to the board of trustees of Huntington Park, asking that a special election be called so that the question of annexation of Bell to this city may be settled. Recently, a notice of intention to circulate such petition was presented to the city trustees by five Bell voters and was accepted by the local trustees and a resolution passed acknowledging its receipt.

(An intimate story of innermost emotions revealed in private letters)
LETTER FROM PAULA PERIER TO SYDNEY CARTON

I couldn't talk to you last night, dear Syd. My heart was too full. Some way I felt that everything I have in the world to cling to was going out of my life.

You must have thought that I was very unappreciative of your kindness and friendship as I had nothing to say when you were leaving your friends for a long journey with the possibility of never returning.

Dear Syd, my heart was too full. I have not so many friends that I could let my best one go without a wrench that would tear my heart-strings.

Do you know, Sydney Carton, what you have been to me?

Let me tell you. You were the one person, man or woman, who, after my baby came, gave me a desire to live. You are the only man in all my life that I have really trusted. You have made me believe in human goodness. You have brought back my faith in God.

All the time you were sitting there in my little drawing room at the Plaza, probably thinking I had grown hard and callous. I was trying to open my breaking heart so I could talk to you. But, I could only feel its hurt. I could not speak of it.

Today I am writing to tell you that it is to you, dear friend, that I owe everything good that my life has held. I gave my love—myself to Jack—and I went down into the depths to pay for it. I do not owe John Alden Prescott anything. I gave my ambition and hard work to that kindly old Jew who made me a moving picture actress. And I made very much more money for him than I have for myself. I do not owe him anything, for even his kindness was tinged with commercialism.

But you, dear Syd, I can never repay what you have given me. To you and Leslie Prescott I shall be in debt forever.

I can never tell you just how I feel toward Leslie, Syd. Honestly, I never knew there could be a woman like her. Up to the time when she adopted little Jack when I, almost insane with hunger and shame, left him outside her door. I felt that my hand was against my sex, even her, and it seemed as though all women's hands were against me.

Oh, Syd, I wish you were not going. I'm sure I shall miss you in the future.

Syd, I must tell you something that I would not dare to tell you if you were not going away. I still love Jack.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NO. 15—THE HIDE GO PEOPLE GO FISHING

"Let me see that, please," said poor Mister Havalook.

"I've got a bite. There's something on my hook," cried Limber Long Legs as all the dolls sat around the laundry pool in Hidy Go Land.

"Pull it up. Let's see! Hurry!" cried the dolls excitedly.

So Limber Long Legs jerked up his line, and there dangling from his hook hung a striped collar. He had hooked it right through the button hole.

"Let me see that, please," said poor Mister Havalook. "It looks exactly like the collar that belongs to my candy-striped shirt. Neither of them came home from the laundry. Indeed all my laundry was mislaid and I got someone else's by mistake."

Then the Twins remembered that the very first time they had seen the poor worried little fairman, he had been carrying a bundle of laundry under his arm—the wrong bundle, as it turned out to be.

"Yes, sir," said Miss Pithers, who was very well educated, "it has initials on it 'P. M. H.'"

"Poor Mister Havalook! That's exactly it!" declared Belinda, excitedly.

"I'm sure I'm very much obliged," said poor Mister Havalook. "Shall I bring it out for you?" asked Nancy.

"Do, please," said the fairman. "Yes, please do. I mean, do please."

"I've got a bite, too," cried Sailor Sam just then. "Something is on my hook and it's so heavy I can't lift it."

"I'll help," said Nick. "Perhaps it's a shark. Be careful," said Sailor Sam, who knew all about the sea.

"It looks more like a zebra," laughed Nick, giving the line a strong pull, and landing something striped and shapeless out on the bank.

"Jiminy Jordan!" cried poor Mister Havalook. "It's my shirt—my candy-striped shirt as sure as mumps! Oh, my poor dear shirt! I never expected to see it again."

"No wonder you didn't get your laundry back," said Nancy. "It all went down the drain."

"I see it all now quite clearly," said poor Mister Havalook, looking around to find out if anyone else had had a nibble.

Sure enough Teddy Bear was just pulling up a polka dot sock and Black Dinah had the other.

Poor Mister Havalook began to smile—indeed he began to grin. Really he almost laughed aloud, he was so pleased to get his clothes back. "It's almost like Christmas," he whispered to Nick.

After that the Hidy Go people found all sorts of things. Two pocket handkerchiefs and a nightgown were underneath.

It was all there, every stitch of it, and Black Dinah said she would iron them all out as soon as they got back.

"A lot of good that does me," said Calamity to Mrs. Jiggs. "I haven't found a thing yet and I suppose I must go for the rest of my days unweaved."

But at that minute she felt a pull on her fish hook. She was so excited as she said afterward, that she almost dropped the line and all.

What did she haul out of the laundry but a lovely lace mat!

"Didn't I tell you?" nodded Miss Raggedy. "That's an antimacassar. It would make a lovely wedding veil, though it is intended to put on the back of chairs."

"Well, that's a start," said Calamity proudly. "I shall put it in my hope chest."

"Oh, let's go home," said Miss Crinoline crossly. "I haven't found my skirt yet."

"Let's go back to the boat," said Sailor Sam.

SHE mixed up an old-fashioned mustard plaster, and the oil in the mustard did the work—but oh! how it blistered and burned.

But now you can get the same relief and help without the plaster and without the blister by using Musterole. Scientifically made with oil of mustard, Musterole soothes and cools as it penetrates and loosens congestion. Apply it with your finger tips.

Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

"KERNELS" BY THE COLONEL

What could be more disgusting than an optimistic golfer?

Or one, who, after you've topped one from the tee invariably says: "Well, brother, you won't have any trouble finding it, anyway."

Another pest is the little once-a-week golfer, who has been looking forward all the week to his game and who, after he has topped nine drives on the first nine holes, complacently places his driver in his bag and serenely remarks: "Well, I got nice direction, anyway."

And to think, it's the speeders they're trying to put in jail.

A man who is contented with his golf game is very much like men we see every day, contented to hold their own—unwilling to step forward because it might incur some trouble somewhere.

First, it takes a lot of nerve to be a one-legged burglar, but when a one-legged burglar tries to escape from a two-legged officer who formerly was a football player and who is a good pistol shot—that's plain foolishness.

A Santa Ana firm is offering prizes to persons who guess closest to the amount of rainfall Santa Ana will get before March 1. Some say the person sending a goose egg will probably get the "grapes."

This may not seem funny, bright, or even printable to some persons, but a man who is staging an entertainment here, came up to the office (Register) and wanted a publication.

JAZZ IN HONEY, BEEKEEPERS HEAR

In guiding the work of the U. S. bee culture laboratory, at Washington, D. C., when they listened to an address of Dr. James I. Hambleton, chief of the bee culture work for Uncle Sam. Dr. Hambleton addressed the California beekeepers yesterday afternoon.

Explaining that it is difficult for the laboratory to inaugurate new projects without the advice and assistance of the beekeepers themselves, Dr. Hambleton asked California beekeepers to get behind his office and suggest projects.

He asked that a committee be named by President Hauser, of the California Beekeepers' association, to confer with him on the grading rules for honey that are now being drawn up by the bee culture laboratory and the bureau of markets. This will insure that the grading rules will be perfectly fair to California honey producers when they sell their honey in eastern markets, it was pointed out.

Investigations in West

Dr. Hambleton also explained that, with the help and interest of California and other western honey producers, he would be able to secure funds for investigation of honey production methods in the west and inter-mountain states. He explained that most of the investigations carried out so far have been based on conditions in the so-called middle west, or in the eastern states. While their principles are applicable to California, the time and method of their application here need amplification by proper study under actual California conditions. Producers of California also were urged not to give up the production of section comb honey in favor of "combless" or extracted honey, for Dr. Hambleton pointed out that slow sales of honey were due to a dearth of comb honey production. He said that experts in the marketing of honey maintained that, until section comb honey came back on to the national market in greater quantities, the sale of all honey would be slowed up.

Urged Honey Extraction

Under the war emergency, the bee culture laboratory urged only the production of extracted honey—honey removed from the comb through centrifugal force—because such honey could more easily be shipped as a sugar substitute to our allies in the war. Now that this emergency is over honey should again be produced in sections in order to boost the popular consumption of honey. Hambleton admitted that the production of extracted honey was less expensive and easier, but cited the national need for a better honey market. He also claimed that nearly enough honey is produced in this country to supply a real, popular demand for honey, as the per capita consumption is but about two pounds a year, compared with more than 100 pounds of sugar.

If by some movement each person in the country could be induced to eat just one more pound of honey during 1926, Dr. Hambleton called attention to the fact that there would be no way under present production to supply the additional 110,000,000 pounds of honey necessary. It was cited that large handlers of food products will not handle honey, as the supply is too variable and too uncertain today. By a consistent national program Dr. Hambleton said, honey could easily be put on the map in a profitable way.

Others Address Association
Jay Smith, of Vincennes, Ind., nationally known breeder of bees; A. K. Whidden, of San Jacinto, an authority on stock improvement in California, and Reese Powell, of Riverside, addressed the beekeepers' association.

"In rearing queen bees for improvement of stock, it is necessary to produce these queens in colonies of bees that are strong enough to insure ample food for the young queens during their entire larval life," said Smith.

"No beekeeper can expect to improve his stock of bees if he takes a chance in rearing queen bees and allows any of the young queens to be short of food at any time during their larval growth. When a honey flow is coming in, this insures that colonies will have ample food for the rearing of young bees. However when this flow stops for any reason, it is necessary for the breeder of bees to feed his colonies in order to simulate honey flow conditions," Smith warned.

Not Profitable to Feed
"Non-beekeepers should not confuse this feeding with anything except an attempt of the beekeeper to stimulate the bees temporarily, as nothing can profitably be fed to bees to produce honey artificially. It is folly for anyone in beekeeping to try to raise queen bees for the improvement of their stock except during a honey flow," said Smith, who was formerly employed by the U. S. department of agriculture to teach better beekeeping methods to western producers.

In the remarks by Reese Powell, of Riverside, he told California beekeepers that his own experience in this state had proved that Smith was right. Whidden showed figures covering the expense of operating his bees for the last seven years and proved from carefully kept records that it had cost him about 8 cents a pound to produce honey under Southern California beekeeping conditions. These figures showed that, under expenses similar to Whidden's, the beekeeper could only secure good daily wage returns from his bees and that honey production was only moderately profitable.

Here is another typographical error as pointed out by Fred L. Button, Oakland: "The opening piece was rendered by a mule quartette."

Still another: "The monthly meeting of the missionary society was held yesterday afternoon."

Data submitted and read at the meeting goes on to say that on June 1, 1924, the Methodist Federation for Social Service Bulletin, edited by Harry F. Ward, chairman of the American Civil Liberties union said:

"The Fellowship of Youth for Peace consciously relates itself to the old-world movement, as does the National Student forum, which has sent six students to Germany to study the movement. After hearing the representatives of European Youth groups plead for a strong American movement, the Fellowship of Youth for Peace was impelled to intensify its efforts to the end that a stronger American Fellowship might render some really effective aid to the world youth crusade."

3000 CHILDREN ARE TREATED BY L. A. HOSPITAL

straightened heel slowly, and many children remain at the Orthopaedic Hospital-School over a year. Not only is the usual educational system carried on by teachers assigned to the hospital by the Los Angeles Board of Education, but occupational therapy offers enticing tasks for crippled fingers, basket weaving, toy making, rug weaving on foot and hand looms, all encouraging normal attitudes toward life and offering backgrounds for trades which may easily prove self-supporting. The occupational therapy shop is sadly over-crowded. Likewise the brace shop, where the little braces of steel and leather which so vitally aid restoration are made. Nine men are today working in a brace shop originally planned to accommodate three!

This Is the Time to Help
Plans to add a third floor to the main hospital building, and as fast as funds will permit, an entire new right unit to the institution, are under way. A building fund campaign has been carried on during the past month, featuring a very full and complete report of the overcrowded conditions at the Orthopaedic Hospital-School and asking the opinions and help of all friends of crippled children throughout California. The very splendid response has encouraged the business men of Los Angeles who administer the financial and business affairs of the institution to the hope that ground for the new right unit can be broken this spring.

But the need is still great—the campaign is as yet in its infancy. The Orthopaedic Hospital-School belongs to the citizens of California, not to Los Angeles alone, and numbers among its supporters men and women from practically every section of the state. We know that this remarkable record of reclamation and progress cannot fail to be a source of joy and pride to them, but there can be no limitations placed upon a work so splendidly begun. The Orthopaedic Hospital-School must increase to a capacity that will include every crippled boy and girl who appeals for aid!

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

BANK ATTACHES OIL COMPANY'S MESA PROPERTY

COSTA MESA, Jan. 27.—A writ issued by the Citizens National bank of Los Angeles, against the Interstate Oil corporation, C. H. White, W. S. Conger, F. G. White and E. B. Miller, which seeks to recover $43,187.65, together with interest on $34,421.27 from January 13, 1926, had today added to the troubles of the Interstate corporation, which has large holdings here. Approximately 600 acres of land under lease to the company is tied up under the writ.

More than 150 landowners are interested in the leases held by the Interstate concern, according to reports. Among the owners are Mary Banning Norris and the Townsend-Vandewater company. The property placed under court order is claimed to be some of the best oil land in the Costa Mesa district.

The writ against the company is the second legal entanglement to be experienced by the oil firm during the past few weeks. Recently, indictments were returned by the Los Angeles county grand jury against Floyd G. White, Albert R. Chandler and W. Arthur Brown, claimed to be officers of the oil company and the Brown Process company, a subsidiary organization. The men, it is claimed, influenced Mrs. Catherine Bayne Stephens, wealthy Pasadena woman, to invest heavily in their projects. It was claimed that the combined capital of the two organizations was in excess of $7,000,000.

NEBLUNG IS APPOINTED SOUTHLAND APPRAISER OF FEDERAL LAND BANK

ANAHEIM, Jan. 27.—Raymond E. Neblung, until recently president of the Anaheim Farm center and prominently identified for more than 15 years with the agricultural development of Southern California, has been appointed Southern California appraiser for the Federal Land bank, of Berkeley, it was learned here today.

Official notice of his appointment was received by Mr. Neblung late Monday afternoon from the Federal Loan bureau at Washington, D. C. He will assume his duties immediately. It is stated. The territory in which he will represent the land bank embraces all that section of Southern California from Santa Barbara to San Diego.

The comprehensive knowledge which Mr. Neblung possesses of agricultural land values in the district he is to serve and the outstanding positions as an agricultural expert which he has held during his long experience in the Southland, brought about his appointment, it is said.

Mr. Neblung, who is a native of this city, has spent the major share of the 34 years of his life actively engaged in agricultural pursuits. His first experience was gained working in his father's citrus grove near this city.

He attended and graduated from the Anaheim union high school and was recently re-elected to the presidency of the alumni association of that institution.

In 1918, he was farm advisor in Riverside county, serving in that capacity until 1921, when he went to South Africa to accept the position of citrus specialist for the South African government. He held this position until 1923. In 1923, he became president of the Anaheim farm center.

Quit Prospect Hole at Beach

SEAL BEACH, Jan. 27.—The Associated Oil company, having penetrated to about 2500 feet in its Hellman Prospect No. 1 well in the Seal Beach district, has abandoned the hole, and is down about 500 feet on its second prospect well, according to field reports. These holes are being drilled purely for the geological information they may discover, and it is understood that the showings so far have been satisfactory.

Correlation of the formations penetrated in the Hellman Prospect No. 1 well and the Associated's Hellman No. 1, which was drilled farther north, and abandoned at about 5000 feet, tend to show a rise to the south according to best available reports. This report serves to confirm the supposition that the oil field lies south of the original Hellman well, and may be on a line with the Shell company's Bryant No. 1, and the Marland Oil company's Bixby No. 1.

Further information on this subject will be available when the Associated has proceeded a little deeper with its Hellman Prospect No. 2, and when the Shell company has attained 2000 or 2500 feet in its Bryant No. 4. This well will be drilled about halfway between the Bryant No. 1 and the Boxby No. 1, instead of south of the Bryant No. 1 as was originally planned.

LAGUNA FLAMES THREATEN HOME ON BEACH FRONT

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 27.—The summer home of Charles Edwards, of Weaverville, was threatened with destruction yesterday afternoon by a grass fire on the slope leading up from the sea. The Edwards home is on the site of the old Riverside camp, famous in the early history of Laguna Beach and which contains the James E. Neel home, the F. D. Peetes home, "Overtime," where Loren Holmwood has his studio, and the Thrall property.

Leading down from the Edwards place is a ravine. A fire was started near the foot of this to burn up rubbish. The wind was too strong and the dry grass caught fire, the flames climbing the hill rapidly. The fire department was called and the firemen, under the direction of Chief Leon Enders, did heroic work in saving the property.

Miss Anna Priscilla Rish, noted music composer, is a sister of Mrs. James E. Neel. She lives on Temple Hills and, hearing the alarm, saw clouds of smoke rising up from the highway at that point. She broke all known speed records in Laguna Beach getting to the fire. Mrs. Neel, who is an invalid, was not in any real danger, however.

BEACH ARTIST IS HONORED BY PLANNING BODY

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 27.—Miss Anna A. Hills, noted as an artist, and past president of the Laguna Beach Art association, was elected chairman of the Laguna Beach planning committee at the organization meeting held Monday afternoon. H. H. Henshaw, treasurer and acting secretary of the chamber of commerce, was chosen as secretary of the committee. The other members are Frank W. Cuprien, noted marine painter; Mrs. Seward A. Simons, distinguished club woman, who was decorated by the Carnegie Peace foundation for her efforts toward world peace; N. Eliot West, formerly assistant editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica and now manager of the Yoch estate; Mrs. Thomas A. Cummings, club woman and native of Laguna Beach, and Roy M. Ropp, builder.

The Laguna Beach planning committee is the most representative ever elected to assist in the progress of the town. The five organizations, the chamber of commerce, the Woman's club, the Community club, the Art association and the real estate board, each sent three representatives to a selection convention, an organization that became known as the committee of fifteen. The representatives of each body presented a name for consideration and the candidate had to be approved by the entire 15 members. Each candidate so selected was then confirmed by the parent organization.

Starting right to work, a committee composed of Mrs. Simons, chairman; Mr. Cuprien and Mrs. Cummings, was appointed by Miss Hills to gather information concerning the best trees for planting on the state highways along the Orange county coast between Newport Beach and Serra.

One of the first matters for consideration will be the plan of Mr. West for a secondary boulevard system. It is proposed to improve a street, or streets, back of the coast highway to which traffic may be diverted to relieve congestion when the Coast boulevard has been completed.

The route to Arch Beach from the business district most favored is via First street, Ocean avenue and Glenoche street. These are virtually continuous and probably would be renamed as one thoroughfare. Cypress drive has been mentioned as the "inside route" for the Cliffs. It would have to connect with Beach street in some manner yet to be determined.

RE-ELECT OLIVE CITRUS OFFICERS

OLIVE, Jan. 27.—Officers and directors of the Olive Hillsides Groves association were re-elected at the annual meeting of the growers of the association here Monday.

W. A. Greenleaf was re-elected president; August Bush, J. A. Porter and J. G. Timken, directors. S. T. Maxwell was re-elected manager and secretary of the packing house.

More than 100 growers were present at the banquet held at the Olive hall. Following the banquet and business meeting, short talks were heard from C. T. Early, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, and also from D. W. McDaniell, A. L. Chandler and J. A. Stewart, also of the Mutual Orange Distributors.

Reports of the officers and the manager showed that growers in the district were expecting a banner crop this coming season.

Women Secure

against lost charm, this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem—offers true protection; discards like tissue

SHEER gowns and ill-timed social or business demands hold no terror for the modern woman. The insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended.

"KOTEX," a new and remarkable way, is now used by 8 in 10 better class women.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

You dine, dance, motor for hours in sheerest frocks without a second's doubt or fear.

It deodorizes, too. And thus stops ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "KOTEX."

Do as millions are doing. End old, insecure ways. Enjoy life every day. Package of twelve costs only a few cents.

EVENING SALUTATION
Let me go softly down to quiet sleep,
And there abide;
Let the swift angels of oblivion keep
Strict watch and wide,
Shutting out fear and cruel hope and pain,
That I tomorrow may be brave again.

Brave to endure each pang, each desert mile
To death's lone goal;
Steadfast to hide my heart and, with a smile,
Close guard my soul,
That I may still hold loss, renouncement cheap,
And honor dear—Oh, let me this night sleep!

OUR GREATEST PRODUCTIVE RESOURCE

Is the growing of Valencia oranges Santa Ana's best bet?

Many of the city's best bankers and business men, its most prosperous farmers and capitalists answer that question emphatically in the affirmative.

Witness Judge R. Y. Williams of the superior court, his brother, W. B. Williams, cashier of the First National bank, Walter Vandermast, clothing merchant, Arthur H. Lyon, J. P. Hatfield, Sherman Stevens, Ed Utt, John L. Wheeler and scores of other eminent successful Valencia orange growers.

Here is a richly productive, highly profitable, very attractive business in which Santa Ana can beat the world. And one that can be engaged in successfully in a very limited area, of which Santa Ana is the center, until it is expanded to the fullest possible extent, consistent with the maintenance of highest quality. Santa Ana has at her very door a veritable mine of wealth.

STRAY DOGS AND OTHER STRAYS

We'll admit, without argument, that it's a good thing to round up stray dogs once in awhile. The law stipulates that license tags should be bought and made to adorn the collars of the members of the canine family. And that is reason enough for having a dogcatcher. Added to that is the fact that he is likely to be diseased, and dangerous. If there is any hydrophobia stalking around, he is sure to be nipped. And he tips over garbage cans, a habit not entirely ignored by dogs of pedigree who sleep in nice little dog houses conveniently placed in the back yards of some residences in Santa Ana.

Doubtless the homeless dog wonders why the authorities pick on him, and neglect the dog's natural enemy, the cat. Possibly, some humans may also wonder, for surely there are neighborhoods in Santa Ana in which stray cats yowling at midnight and other hours of the night deserve official attention, or something. If there was some way to round up all the stray cats, along with the stray dogs, what a round up that would be!

There was a time when Santa Ana maintained a pound in which stray horses and stray mules were placed until claimed by an owner or until sent forth to the boneyard. But a stray horse hasn't a chance these days. The automobile would get him. The stray dog, however, has learned to dodge the speeding automobile, and lives on. If he survives he must also become adept at making tracks faster than can be made by anyone who may be given the job of dogcatcher.

FIFTY YEARS HENCE

Prof. A. M. Kow, a British scientist, rises to prophesy as follows:

In 50 years our ocean liners will be replaced by giant hydroplanes that will skim over the tops of the waves at tremendous speed, and by equally big airplanes.

Cotton, silk and wool clothing will be replaced by cheaper and more durable vegetable fiber.

Women will have smaller wardrobes, because with growing civilization they will be "less swayed by every passing fashion."

All the rough work will be done by machinery. Factories will be smokeless, and placed underground.

Home life will have vanished, and people will live in hotels.

Some of these prophecies obviously recommend themselves, especially those concerning transportation, fabrics and machinery.

But why place factories underground, doing an unnecessary lot of digging, when there is so much space above ground, and improved transportation tends to make factory space available on the surface all over the earth?

Why suppose that women's love of varied adornment will change?

Why suppose that people will be content to live together like cattle in a barn or chickens in a coop, sacrificing sun, air, space, freedom and privacy?

Heretofore, it is true, our civilization has brought us together in crowds. But now the tendency is the other way. The automobile, airplane, telephone and radio enable people to enjoy the benefits of civilization apart, in a new and richer form of family life.

PEACE IN BLOODY COUNTY

The coroner of "bloody Williamson county" in Illinois announced early in January that the county is rapidly losing its unpleasant title. In the past decade that county has averaged 17 murders a year. In 1924 it had 18 murders. Outsiders looked with horror upon Herrin and the county in which it is located because of the factional warfare among Klan, anti-Klan and mine groups.

In 1925, however, there were only 10 murders in the whole county. The habit of violence is growing less. The coroner says:

"The county is peaceful because it wants to be and not because authorities are holding fiery factions in check with firearms. The reformation has come from within, and this year's murder list probably will be the smallest since 1915."

When Williamson county has conquered its own crime wave, it should offer to help the rest of the country where murder seems to be on the increase.

MEDAL FOR A DOG

"King," a collie belonging to George Ruhrwein of Cincinnati, is a proud dog. Or at least he ought to be. He wears a decoration for valor comparable to those given our soldier heroes in the World war. "King" saved his young master from drowning, and was awarded a medal by the Hamilton county S. P. C. A.

Evidently recognizing animals' merit is as important as saving them from cruelty. We hope "King" duly appreciates his honors.

It is probably worth while, anyway, to pay such honors to deserving dogs, as we erect monuments to human benefactors—not because it does them any good, but because it sets a good example to the living men and women.

STUDENT LOAN FUND

An appeal for contributions to the Student Loan Fund ought not go unheeded. Details of the plan followed for operating this fund appear in another part of the Register today. It is shown that the fund is used to keep a number of students in college. If this money were not available to them as loans, these students would have to quit their studies and go to work.

The money is not used for charity. It is not given away, but is loaned, and each student who receives a dollar of it is obligated to return the money to the fund that it may be used to help other students. Thus, the money put into the fund now will be kept working for the benefit of worthy students for scores of years to come.

For Boulevard Stops

County traffic officers have encountered some difficulty in enforcing the ordinance providing for boulevard stops. It is a matter of education. Many motorists, even those resident in San Bernardino county, have not as yet fixed in their minds the location of those stops. Long lists of intersections by street and boulevard names mean little to many motorists, for they do not know the location of these intersections. Red warning signs, however, have been erected at the intersections and it is probable the supervisors may order "stop buttons" placed in the roadways of all the highways entering main boulevards where stops are required.

One rule easily remembered, however, on two of the main highways, the Foothill boulevard and the Valley boulevard, is that all cars entering these highways from either the north or south are required to come to a full stop. On other highways, however, the rule is not so definite, the ordinance naming intersections regarded as dangerous. Motorists, however, could well afford to look for signs when entering any main boulevard, for undoubtedly the time is arriving when actual arrests instead of warnings, will be made in order to impress the new law on the minds of motorists.

Boulevard stops are being placed with rapidity in many portions of the state, and motorists must be alert not only in San Bernardino county but elsewhere.

Every effort, however, should be made by the traffic department to impress upon motorists the existence of many boulevard stops before actual arrests are made for violation, for these stops are a comparatively new regulation except in cities of large population.

San Bernardino city officials have declined so far to establish boulevard stops within the city limits, but the time is rapidly approaching when such a policy will be necessary. Too many accidents are occurring at intersections and there are places where it is imperative that either the north and south bound cars or the east and west machines must be given more definite right-of-way.

Insurance Increase Great

Phenomenal is the volume of life insurance written in this country, of recent years. Take, for example, last year. The new, paid-for business for 1925 was $16,400,000,000. This is almost twice as much as all outstanding life insurance in the United States in the year 1900. Last year's figures showed a gain of some $2,200,000,000 over 1924. Grand total admitted assets of life insurance companies in 1925 increased to $11,500,000,000.

Insurance has become as staple as sugar and shoes. Nearly everybody insures in some form or measure, these days. The protection thus given becomes an asset of considerable value to the community. It means much to have literally millions of persons potentially indemnified for any and every loss they may sustain within the province of insurance. And the indemnification for losses—the money actually paid by insurance companies to policyholders or beneficiaries—runs to a tremendous total annually.

Insurance companies, too, it should be remembered, play a very important part in the economic life of the nation. Money paid to insurance companies in premiums does not lie idle. Beyond the safe reserves held by companies for indemnifications on policies, insurance money goes into healthy channels, to aid in operating the great public utilities; to help substantial development; and to keep the wheels of industry going.

HYGIENE IN HOME VERY IMPORTANT

In considering sanitation, the bathroom is one of the most important. It should always be kept clean and sanitary. If you live in a district where toilets are outside the house, such places should be kept screened against flies.

As we achieve better sanitary conditions we will provide plenty of space for sleeping quarters. It is unhealthy for more than two persons to occupy a bedroom 10 feet long, 10 feet wide, and 10 feet high. A bedroom that does not possess window space to the extent of at least one-fourth the floor space is unsatisfactory. A bedroom so located as not to permit the keeping of bedroom windows open both in summer and winter during sleeping hours is not healthful.

If you have a back yard, it deserves attention. The garbage pail will bear watching. A garbage pail should be of metal, it should be watertight, and it should always be kept covered. Remember, it is the open garbage can that attracts man's enemies, the rat and the fly. Waste paper and other rubbish should not be allowed to accumulate in the back yard. Rubbish should be kept in a proper container, so that it may be frequently and easily removed.

It would be well to start early and make a complete survey of your home. Clean it from cellar to roof. Remove all debris, repair all leaks, clean the attic if you have one, of all useless and dust-collecting carpets, rugs, furniture, and other rubbish. Sweep the cobwebs from the dark corners and from the dust-laden picture frames.

Open the windows and let in the sunshine. Sunshine is the best germicide that nature provides. Take your rugs, carpet and matting out and clean them thoroughly.

Scrub the floors and woodwork. Soap and hot water and a little soda are the enemies of dirt. Plug up the rat holes and the mice holes. Putty and paint the cracks to keep vermin from breeding. A fresh coat of whitewash applied to the cellar walls will add to the appearance of your cellar and freshen it up. Inspect the plumbing and keep the pipes free from rubbish.

Collect all the old tin cans, broken bottles and boxes from back yard and alley and cut the weeds. Do not throw the collected waste into the alley or on the vacant lot. Personal hygiene and clean, sanitary homes are the building material out of which a healthy world may be constructed.

Good Roads Lead To Nation's Prosperity

San Francisco Chronicle.

It is natural that an industrialist of the type of Charles M. Schwab should, in discussing the good-road movement, direct his attention to the economic phase of the question. Others might dwell on the better relations developed through bringing all sections of the country into closer union. The recreational value of highways in bringing mountain, stream and seashore nearer to the cities might be emphasized by others. But Schwab's mind instinctively turns to practical questions. He looks upon highways as agencies to promote more economic production and to increase the wealth of the nation.

Good roads are an investment incalculably fruitful. The first direct effect, in agriculture, is to enlarge the farmer's market and to add to his return the difference between the expense of hauling over good roads and bad roads. Land values are increased and new production encouraged.

Good roads and their companion, automobiles, are not a luxury, but a necessity. They are a material aid to the railroads in taking care of our complex transportation problem and supplementing the older agencies' effort to provide an adequate and efficient service to business of all kinds.

Highways breed highways. The more you build, the more you need. Yet Mr. Schwab points out that although we have 3,000,000 miles of roads of all kinds in the United States, only 10 per cent are actually in first-class condition. It is likely, then, even with every encouragement given to improving our highways, we shall not catch up with our requirements for another generation.

Expenditure of great sums for road building, however, is the surest economy. It is an investment that makes the most certain returns. In his message to Congress, President Coolidge said: "No expenditure of public money contributes so much to the national wealth as for building good roads."

Here in California, where our automobile registrations amount to 1,475,913, we are tremendously interested in seeing our state highway system completed.

LOSS AND GAIN

When I compare
What I have lost with what I have gained;
What I have missed with what I have attained,
Little room do I find for pride.

How like an arrow the good intent
Has fallen short or been turned aside.

The Very Idea!

TEARIN' IN

There's a heap of satisfaction for the man who swings to action when he has a job that really should be done. He's the live and snappy stepper who has got the brand of pepper that can make the hardest labor turn to fun.

Has no time for lazy frettin', as to where he will be gettin', 'cause his time is taken up with tearin' in. Frets and fumes are only brewin' for the man who's shy on doin', and is just a bit too lazy to begin.

After all, where life will find us quite depends on what's behind us, and a man is what he makes himself, I guess. If you've left a trail of shirking, in the place of honest working, well—you can't expect to reach to much success.

All we've got to do is learn to know the proper one to turn to, and the proper one is you, it's safe to say. Though we're all created equal, after that our own sweet sequel quite depends on things we're doing, day by day.

One of these bright days the car companies are gonna decide that giving people a lot of straps to hang on is all wrong—and make us bring our own.

A motion picture company, taking pictures of real American farm life, caught a farm hand in action. Showing what science can do.

At trying to meet expenses he was never known to shirk. He looked until he found a job—Then sent his wife to work.

HOME, SWEET HOME!—(Eight o'clock in the evening) Tha baby's cryin' for a drink of water. Dad's yellin' fer his slippers. Tha two boys cant find their pajamas. The dishes are waitin' in the sink. Somebody's ringin' the front door bell. And mom has but two hands.

NOW, HONESTLY—You haven't been to a movie or a show for weeks.

Gosh, how you hate movies. Think they give you a headache. Imagination, most likely, but it's a good alibi.

Just sticking around the house—and you enjoy it.

Been out all day, among people, and you're satisfied to settle down and loaf in the evening.

But, how about the Mrs.? When she's reading the paper, just watch her.

Fetch she turns to the movie, or show ads.

Take the hint, old man. She'll get a kick out of it—and that ought to give you a kick, too.

Ya can't blame some people for not claiming to be self-made.

Americanization Ideal

Among our most patriotic accented of population from Europe are to be counted the South Slavs, or so-called Yugoslavs, people coming here from the territory formerly called Serbia or Dalmatia or Montenegro and adjacent part of the Austro-Hungarian domain. But there are among the larger settlements of these in the East, as with Italians and Polish and other national groups, anti-American influences at work striving to keep them organized for the support of their native governments and cultures. "Americanization" is an issue among them, as well as a frequently feverish desire of enthusiastic native Americans.

Recently an address by E. H. Scott of the Chicago Chamber of Commerce before a Yugoslav assembly, set out clearly a forward looking view of Americanization, as reported thus in the "United Serbians" paper:

"The most desirable result of our meeting together on an occasion of this kind is to see how many interests we have in common. To this end, it is well for us to consider those factors that lead us to develop in sympathy and respect, and a spirit of co-operation in which we, as individuals, families and racial groups joined together in a common nationality, may work together for our comfort and pleasure, and for all those finer satisfactions of life.

"We hear much said about tolerance, but tolerance is no principle upon which to build a united citizenship. Mutual respect, admiration, sympathy, a desire to help one another—these form the only basis upon which a united people may live in harmony and develop the highest type of citizenship.

"Americanization is not shibboleth by pronouncing which you can tell who is native and who is foreign. Americanization is not learning to speak and write the English language, however desirable that may be as a common medium of expressing ourselves. It is not an exclusiveness which denies any virtue or character to an inhabitant of another country. It is not a type of super-patriotism. Americanization is the development of a type of human character under conditions of individual and social liberty provided for by American institutions.

"The true American is one whose mind and heart are open to every influence for good, from whencesoever it may come. America means opportunity—opportunity for self-development, intellectual and moral; opportunity to work; opportunity to rise to a condition of comfort; opportunity to acquire means and to develop character for a life of service.

"Pupin, the poor Serbian, has become the Great American physicist; Steinmetz, the obscure German, became the great American electrical engineer; Mary Antin, the little Russian girl, has become an American writer and a social reformer; Jacob Riis, the little Dutch boy, became a famous American newspaper correspondent. With the contributions of these and hundreds of others whom you will readily recall, who would dare say that true Americanism has in it only the blood of the Adames, the Lodges, the Washingtons and the Lincolns? "Millions in all the years since the Declaration of Independence, and the statement of liberties in the Constitution of the United States, have come from foreign shores, and they have mingled their sympathies, their interests, their ambitions, their characters, their acquisitions, with those of that early group in one common character, which we call American. Americanism, therefore, is the highest type of human character gathered from all the nations of the earth, growing on this free soil of America. It is the striving to live out the principles of liberty and opportunity, personal and commercial, which were formulated in the early history of the country, but which have been interpreted and reinterpreted in the years since.

"The future greatness of America is not to be reached by harking back to any native groups on the Hudson, or around Boston harbor. True Americanism today, and for all future time, consists in developing the highest type of character, intellectual and moral, throughout the human composite of all racial groups that have gathered here on American soil, and in establishing in them all a genuine loyalty to one another and a common loyalty to the principles of personal liberty. This spells America."

To a Rooster

The monument idea seems to have broken away from all restraint. A bronze memorial is to be erected to a rooster. It appears that in 1854 a Yankee sailor, returning from a voyage to the Orient, presented a friend living at Adamsville, R. I., with a very large red rooster which he had obtained from some point in Northern Burma. The rooster prospered in the Rhode Island climate and attained a ripe old age. From him has come a strain of chickens known as "Rhode Island Reds." Now it is reported that at Adamsville, where the rooster lived for so many years, a bronze statue of him and of heroic size is to be erected and mounted on a pedestal of native granite.

Since the erection of monuments to birds, dogs, cats, and even to cheese, has become common it naturally follows that the custom would be further extended. Of course there are those who deny that an honor should be awarded to a blant, noisy, slumber-disturbing fowl. But it isn't the noise that is being honored. It's the eggs and the dried chicken furnished by the descendants of the original Rhode Island Red. And surely that is not amiss.—(St. Joseph News Press).
